Presentation of the Virgin Mary

It stands to reason that Almighty God's selection of the Virgin Mary to be the Mother of God was not a random selection. In his wisdom, God selected not from the nobility but from the humble, thoroughly devout, daughter of equally devout parents whose names were Joachim and Anna.

Tradition has it that Anna, childless for many years, reached a point in her life when just short of despair she prayed in earnest that God grant her a child with a promise that should her wish be fulfilled she would pledge the child to his holy Temple. It did not matter to Anna that the child granted her by God was a girl and, faithful to her word, she presented her daughter, given the name of Mary, to the holy Temple at the age of three, on the 21st of November. She remained in the house of God for twelve years, emerging at the age of fifteen with a purity and wholesomeness found in no other creature of God.

By the time she had been released to her parents, the saintly Mary was not only a flawless maiden but in her twelve years had acquired the lore and religion of the deepest scholars, something usually denied a female child of those days. So much has been written of the Lord's mother that the concern here is for a glimpse into her life as a human being.

The Virgin Mary is looked upon by Orthodoxy as "Panagia," which translates into the all-encompassing saint. Greek Orthodox Christians need but one name and that name is "Panagia," carrying the full impact on the Christian faith as no other name can regardless of the language.

The beginnings of Christianity were not the scattered remnants that somehow merged into a smattering of Ideologies. By divine intent the great religion of Christ stemmed form a tight circle which spread itself out as the greatest of human experiences. To begin with, the high priest entrusted with the care of Mary was Zacharias, who in turn was the father of St. John the Baptist, referred to as the prefiguration of the Messiah and the man who was to baptize Jesus Christ.

Yet in her teens the Virgin Mary, in a story that cannot be told often enough, was visited by the Archangel Gabriel, sent by the Almighty himself to be told that she, a wisp of a girl, mortal but blessed, was to become the mother of the Son of God. There is every reason to believe that as electrifying as the news was, she received it with both joy and complete serenity. A girl can get excited by being elected "Queen of May" but to be "Queen of the Universe" must have been an anticipation not of excitement but the sublimest of joy, human or otherwise.

It follows that both Joacheim and Anna, as the grandparents so to speak, of the Son of God, are also venerated as saints of the Church, so much so that they are also known as the "Patron Saints of Pious Education," principally because of the twelve year course of study of religion of their daughter Mary. The Christian can make his own choice of his favorite among the four days of the year, which are feast days of the Virgin Mary. These are the Birth of the Blessed Virgin Mary on September 8, the Presentation of the Virgin Mary on November 21, the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary on March 25, and the Dormition of the Virgin Mary on August 15. On the calendar of the Church, all four of these days are of equal importance.

The world sees the Virgin Mary much as Michaelangelo did when he carved out his famous Pieta in which a youthful looking Mary is holding the lifeless body of her crucified Son. Nowhere is she seen as an old woman, at least not at the age of a woman who is the mother of a thirty-three year old son.

Among the Holy Land's most sacred shrines is the one at the base of the Garden of Gethesemane, the site of the agony of Christ. This shrine is dedicated to the Virgin Mary and her parents. After a descent down a cement stairway of about fifty steps, the tomb of Joachim is on the left and on the right of the tomb of his wife Anna. Some fifty steps below this is the empty tomb of the Virgin Mary since, like the Son of God, she ascended into heaven. Stories abound about the Virgin Mary but the truthful one that clings and shall do so forever is that in being the mother of the Son of God, she is the mother of the world. For this reason November 21 is one of Christianity's holiest feast days.

OFFICIAL

You are hereby notified that nominations for the up-coming election process for the 2027 Parish Council are now being accepted by the Nominating/Election committee under the aegis of Mrs. Maria Small, Ms. Teresa Georgas and Mr. Niko Gilman. Nominations will be open until SATURDAY, November 21, 2026, at 5:00 p.m.

No names for nomination will be accepted after this date and time.

In accordance with the guidelines of our holy Archdiocese of America as published in the 1993 edition of The Special Regulations and Uniform Parish Regulations, a nominee to the Parish

1. Sacramentally sound with the Orthodox Church (Article V, Section 6);
2. Financially sound with his/her Parish (Article V, Section 1); and
3. Current in his/her Stewardship pledge, or, if using the envelope system, current in his/her donation as of the Sunday preceding the election (Article V, Section 7).

Additionally, a candidate must bear in mind that:

> "All candidates shall attend a seminar conducted by the Priest prior to the election at which the Priest shall discuss the Uniform Parish Regulations and explain them to the candidates, particularly the Oath of Office. At the conclusion of the seminar, all candidates will acknowledge by signing a statement that they understand the Uniform Parish Regulations and, if elected, will abide by them and the Oath of Office. If a candidate for the Parish Council refused to attend the seminar and sign the declaration, his/her name shall be deleted from the list of eligible candidates." (Article IX, Section 3).

In adherence to the above, we have scheduled a

Parish Council Seminar to be held on Sunday, November 22nd at 5:00 p.m. in Spartanburg, SC (small hall)

Candidates must attend this meeting or arrange with Fr. George if there is a conflict.

The list of those who are sacramentally and financially eligible for a position on the Parish Council for 2027 is posted in the Parish Hall for your kind consideration. Please give these names your utmost attention. The election will take place on Sunday, December 6th at the Church from 12:00 p.m. to 1:15 p.m.

We will be electing 5 new members. Absentee ballots will be available by calling the church office. If you should have any questions regarding your financial good standing with the Parish, please contact the Parish Council Treasurer at once.

Stewardship 2026

The following is a list of stewards who have pledged or paid for 2026. REMEMBER: In order to run for the Parish Council or participate in the General Assembly meetings you must be Baptized or Confirmed member of the Greek Orthodox Church, and be Ecclesiastically in good standing. Protecting the Future of Faith

The Sacred Mission of the Archons and the Ecumenical Patriarchate

On this Archon Sunday, we bring you warm greetings from His All-Holiness Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew, His Eminence Archbishop Elpidophoros of America, and our National Commander, Archon Anthony J. Limberakis.

Every year on Archon Sunday, our parish pauses to reflect on something larger than ourselves — the sacred mission of the Ecumenical Patriarchate and our shared responsibility as Orthodox Christians to support the Mother Church of Constantinople. This year, that reflection carries special weight.

The Ecumenical Patriarchate has stood for nearly seventeen centuries as the spiritual center of worldwide Orthodoxy. Through empires, wars, exile, and persecution, it has endured — not because of political power, but because it is rooted in Christ. Today, that endurance is being tested as never before, and the Archons of the Ecumenical Patriarchate are at the forefront of its defense.

His All-Holiness Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew, spiritual leader of the world's 300+ million Orthodox Christians.

Who Are the Archons?

The Archons of the Ecumenical Patriarchate are recognized lay leaders of the Orthodox Church who use their standing to advocate with world leaders, honored by His All-Holiness Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew for service to the Faith. But their role is far more than an honor — it is a calling, a call to duty in defense of the Faith.

They are committed to protecting religious freedom and ensuring the survival and flourishing of the Ecumenical Patriarchate — the spiritual center of the world's more than 300 million Orthodox Christians. They are, in many ways, the last line of defense preventing what His All-Holiness has described as the "asphyxiation" of the Mother Church.

For nearly seventeen centuries, the Ecumenical Patriarchate has preserved the unity, order, and continuity of Orthodoxy through empires, wars, persecution, and exile. The Archons stand as defenders of that sacred legacy.

What Does "Ecumenical" Really Mean?

The word comes from the Greek oikoumene — "the whole inhabited world." The Ecumenical Patriarch is not merely the bishop of a local Greek minority in Istanbul. He is the first among equals — primus inter pares — serving as the spiritual center of unity and coordination for all of worldwide Orthodoxy. There is only one Ecumenical Patriarch among all the Patriarchates, and that unique, universal title has always run with the land of Constantinople itself.

His canonical responsibilities include convening pan-Orthodox councils, mediating disputes between Churches, and granting autocephaly when pastorally necessary. Nearly every modern autocephalous Church traces its recognition, directly or indirectly, through the Ecumenical Patriarchate of Constantinople.

This universal role is recognized well beyond the Orthodox world. At a recent papal inauguration, Patriarch Bartholomew was seated in a place of honor above the College of Cardinals. One of the new Pope's first international visits was to Constantinople itself.

Why Constantinople Itself Matters

People sometimes ask: why not simply move the Patriarchate somewhere else? The answer is that Constantinople is not accidental to Orthodox Christianity — it is essential to it. The Ecumenical Patriarchate has remained in Constantinople continuously for seventeen centuries. It survived the fall of Byzantium, wars, expulsions, and political oppression — yet it remains there today. Its canonical status runs with the land of Constantinople itself — a status that cannot be transferred or recreated elsewhere.

If the Patriarchate were forced to leave, it would not simply be a relocation. It would represent the triumph of persecution and the erasure of one of Christianity's oldest continuous spiritual centers. Its continued presence is a testimony to religious freedom, coexistence, and the enduring witness of Orthodoxy.

A Threat From Within Orthodoxy

One of the most serious challenges today comes not from outside Orthodoxy, but from within it. The Moscow Patriarchate has increasingly aligned itself with the geopolitical ambitions of the Russian state — a dangerous fusion of church authority and political power.

This alignment became most visible after Patriarch Bartholomew exercised his canonical responsibility to grant autocephaly to the Orthodox Church of Ukraine — restoring ecclesiastical independence to millions of Orthodox faithful. Moscow's response was hostility, political pressure, and an aggressive campaign to undermine the authority of Constantinople.

Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service publicly attacked His All-Holiness, calling him "an antichrist in a cassock" and "a devil in the flesh." The Patriarch of Moscow remained silent. We have seen religious language used to justify war. We have seen incursions into canonical territories in Ukraine and Africa. This is not a jurisdictional disagreement. It is a spiritual crisis.

What the Ecumenical Patriarchate Stands For

Against all of this, the Ecumenical Patriarchate stands for conciliarity instead of coercion, reconciliation instead of domination, and dialogue, freedom of conscience, and unity in Christ. The struggle before us is ultimately about preserving a free and universal Orthodoxy — an Orthodoxy rooted in Christ and guided by spiritual leadership rather than political power.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Pray — for His All-Holiness Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew, for the Mother Church, and for all those who labor in defense of religious freedom.

Stay informed — learn about the challenges facing the Ecumenical Patriarchate and share that knowledge with family, friends, and community members.

Support the mission — consider supporting the Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew Foundation, established to secure the long-term future of the Ecumenical Patriarchate. This is not simply philanthropy. It is an investment in the spiritual heart of our Faith.

A Hope Rooted in Christ

The Ecumenical Patriarchate has survived persecution, exile, and the fall of empires. It has endured not because of political power, but because it is rooted in Christ. On this Archon Sunday, let us renew our commitment to stand with the Mother Church — in prayer, in awareness, and in action.

Announcements

Annual Christmas Card | The Parish Council will be collecting names Nov 1 - Dec 6 for the annual community Christmas card which is sent to all parishioners. If you would like your name included, please contact John Tollie Ross at (706) 936-8877. The cost is $20.00 per family listing.

Stewardship Luncheon | Please join us for liturgy and lunch Sunday, November 1.
Stewardship Sunday is an opportunity to worship together, sign our stewardship cards together, and break bread together. We will see you there! Stewardship encompasses our time, talent, and treasures. The Archdiocese, Metropolis, Orthodox and most Protestant churches have the same message – being a member of a church includes several aspects, one of which is this commitment. If we'd like to participate in voting, consider a leadership position, be group leader, etc., we should participate. Note that signing a Stewardship card is not all about finances. While it is important for budget planning, daily operations, and supporting the church mission, not everyone's circumstances are the same. Time and talent are just as important!

Sunday School

Sunday School for the 2026-2027 school year is proceeding on schedule. We would like to see every child in the community participate in this important aspect of Christian Education. If your child has not yet attended, please make every effort to bring them. Please note that classes begin each Sunday at 9:45 a.m., in the Parish House or the Small Hall. It is important for each child to be there on time to receive the full benefit of the program. At 10:25 a.m. the classes end, and the students then go to church to sit with their parents.

Gingerbread Churches | The annual making of gingerbread houses will be held during St. Nicholas Luncheon in the large hall on December 6th. This is a FUN event!

Christmas Children Program | Practice for the Christmas Program will begin during Sunday School. November 1st. Please make every effort to bring the children, to ensure a successful program. We will probably have to practice during coffee hour as well. November 22 - There will be no Sunday School the Sunday after Thanksgiving.

Our Sympathies

The Parish wishes to extend its sympathies to Mrs. Kiki Chulkas and her family on the falling asleep in the Lord of her beloved husband, Mr. Thomas (Tom) Chulkas on November 25, 2026. He was a beloved husband, father, grandfather, brother, uncle and friend of all. He will truly be missed.

May His Memory Be Eternal!
