LASSA ARMCHAIR

From the Sanskrit lāśya, it evokes softness, beauty, and the gesture of repose. Its name carries the lightness of a feminine movement, like a silent dance or a sigh upon landing.

In form, the Lassa embodies that same essence: full, rounded volumes that suggest immediate embrace, contrasted by the sinuous backrest that unfolds like a delicate act of support. Each curve is drawn to envelop, each proportion seeking balance between sculpture and comfort. More than just a seat, the Lassa is an invitation to an aesthetic and sensory pause, where body and gaze find rest in harmony.

LIV ARMCHAIR

LIV ARMCHAIR

The Liv Armchair is born from the meeting between contemporary gesture and the emotional memory of the past. Its subtle and precise design evokes the lightness of natural forms, as if it had been sculpted by time rather than by hands alone.

The backrest in natural cane, delicately tensioned, is an ode to tradition: it gracefully recalls the past while engaging in dialogue with the transparency and lightness of the present.

Liv is more than an armchair: it is a presence. Its design invites permanence, contemplation, and pause. An object of enduring character, created to transcend trends and remain relevant, because it is born from something greater than fashion—it is born from the idea of lasting beauty.

THRONUS ARMCHAIR

THRONUS ARMCHAIR

In Latin, Thronus denotes the elevated seat of the gods.

The Thronus Armchair combines firmness and softness in a continuous, harmonious gesture that celebrates the mastery of woodworking as much as the art of ergonomics in a silent language.
The arched backrest naturally extends through the arms, forming a generous embrace that supports without imposing.

Thronus is a place of contemplation, pause, presence, and empowerment.

AYRA ARMCHAIR

AYRA ARMCHAIR

Ayra is born from the gesture of an embrace. Its curved backrest envelops with softness, creating a sense of refuge—not as a boundary, but as welcome. On the armchair, that gesture becomes grounded and contemplative, an invitation to pause. On the dining chair, it rises in precise proportions, supporting the body without sacrificing the lightness of the design.

There is a sculpture in its form, but never rigidity: each curve is conceived to follow the body, each angle converses between ergonomics and beauty.

Ayra does not impose itself. It approaches. It is a delicate, essential presence.

GLOOP SOFA

GLOOP SOFA

With generous volumes and continuous lines, the Gloop sofa embodies the idea of the body in transformation. Inspired by the “Gloope” and “Gleep” characters from the classic 1970s animated film—amorphous beings that molded themselves to need—the piece proposes a new understanding of comfort and adaptability in contemporary furniture.

By eliminating seams and fusing seat, backrest, and arms, it achieves a fluid geometry that asserts itself with lightness in space. The ergonomics are guided by the design’s very gesture, embracing the body without rigidity and fostering a tactile and visual sensory experience. More than just a sofa, Gloop moves as a sculptural form whose function is to convey comfort and affection.

CALENO SOFA

SOFA CALENO

Caleno evokes calm, fullness, and expansive comfort. Its name carries the sensation of total rest—as a gesture that slows down body and mind. With generous forms and intelligent mechanisms, the Caleno sofa adapts to moments of relaxation with functional elegance.

A true refuge within the home. Rest as language. Caleno invites inner silence—to decelerated time, to the act of surrender to comfort. Its name evokes calm and shelter.

It does not seek attention—only creates the atmosphere where everything slows down. Time changes density around it: words lengthen their pauses, gazes linger, shoulders soften.

Caleno is permission. To stop. To feel. To be.

LUNNA SOFA

SOFA LUNNA

An organic/linear sofa inspired by the silent, precise presence of the moon. Its curved, embracing form recalls the waxing crescent—symbol of expansion, delicacy, and renewal.

Lunna is like the moon: constant, serene, fluid. A sofa that doesn't merely occupy space—it pacifies it. Its design begins with a continuous, nearly orbital curve that gently envelops without sacrificing line. Organic and linear at once, Lunna is defined not by opposition but by the space between: where softness meets geometry, and where sculptural form serves the body. Designed for transitional spaces or breathing points throughout the home, Lunna drifts discreetly. It does not vie for protagonism—it offers pause.

Pelago is born from vastness, an invitation to abandon the rigid forms of everyday life. Inspired by the open sea and the silence that only the immensity knows, its generous, modular design echoes the freedom to compose restful spaces. Each module is a gesture of comfort. The backrest—with its enveloping form—cradles the body in a near-liquid softness. It offers surprising ergonomics, as if every part of the body finds its exact place without effort. AION SOFA where time rests. where form dissolves.

from ancient Greek, aión denoted eternity not as something distant, but as a continuous flow, without beginning or end. inspired by this notion of permanence, the aión sofa emerges from the essence of the earth. as if its form sprang from a single gesture. everything rests in equilibrium, like a landscape sculpted by time—just as the seat and backrest naturally settle upon their base.

the modules connect through affinity, enabling fluid, ever-changing compositions. the integrated table appears as a natural extension of the piece. aión is a silent manifesto against urgency, a space where time slows down.

SOFA MYRTOS

Myrtos is born from a habitable landscape—a system of mutable forms where comfort and ingenuity converge. Its name evokes ancient myths, yet its purpose is thoroughly contemporary: reinventing how we live at home.

Generous modules create islands of welcome, while movable backrests—adjustable manually, motorized, or electromagnetic—offer ever-renewed experiences. Here, each gesture of rest is or was discovery. All sofa architecture extends into solid wood elements and a natural fabric deck that incorporate functional elegance: hidden drawers, discreet storage pockets, marble-topped surfaces, integrated power points, and recessed niches—where beauty and utility coexist with nature. Myrtos invites you to transform the living room into a choreographed space of your choices: all of them.

An axis between fullness and emptiness.

The T Table does not occupy space: it passes through it. Designed to inhabit the interval between modules, it becomes the sofa's natural extension — a central support that is not a mere accessory, but part of the ensemble's architecture.

In naval plywood laminated with natural veneer, it reveals a precise and light presence: a delicate cut between soft volumes, a firm line that balances material and gesture.

The T Table is pause and support: a place of rest for objects or for the gaze. It does not compete for protagonism. It defines the scene.

MONDRIAN SOFA

MONDRIAN SOFA

A collection with a rational soul, inspired by the painter Piet Mondrian and his artistic movement, Neoplasticism, whose principles are based on absolute geometric rigor and the adoption of pure geometric shapes. Practicality and attention to quality, ergonomics, and comfort prevail in the Mondrian products. As a result, we have the support provided by rigid and linear structures in contrast with rounded upholstery that offers comfort, all with a high level of customization: from the finish of the structures to the height of the seats and the type of armrests. The pieces in the collection, ranging from living room to bedroom, include a modular sofa system, chaise-longue, armchairs, coffee tables, sideboards, desks, nightstands, and a bed.

BOTERO ARMCHAIR

BOTERO ARMCHAIR

The design of the Botero armchair is inspired by the work of the renowned Colombian painter Fernando Botero. The most striking feature of Botero's paintings is the portrayal of chubby and voluminous bodies. This is often seen as a critique of human greed, yet always infused with humor. Keeping this in mind, the designers bring together two distinct worlds: the unmistakable lines of Scandinavian furniture (which heavily utilizes wood) combine with the current aesthetic that values abundant, organic, curvaceous, and upholstered volumes. The result is an iconic, fully upholstered piece that brings fresh air to the high-end furniture market.

MONOLITOS SOFA

MONOLITOS SOFA

The Monolitos Sofa marks the beginning of the partnership between Bell'Arte and the Lattoog Studio. Following a recurring strategy in the creative process of designers Leonardo Lattavo and Pedro Moog, the concept of this sofa is anchored in forms found in nature: river stones (pebbles) are here translated into ergonomic and soft shapes that give life to this sofa. Complemented by other elements such as amorphous bases, curved backrests, and side tables, a wide range of sizes and compositions becomes available. Furthermore, poufs in various sizes serve as large "soft stones," expanding the possibilities for compositions. The result is a sculptural sofa that stands out for its organic and ample appearance, inviting relaxation, balance, and tranquility.

MUSH TABLE

MUSH TABLE

The Mush Table is inspired by nature, more specifically by the shape of mushrooms. Its top, reminiscent of a mushroom cap, and the base, resembling the stem, make this table a unique and striking piece. The foam-covered base not only mimics the texture of a mushroom but also adds a cozy touch — a feature rarely seen in side tables. The top, made of natural wood veneer, features a sophisticated detail: a specially designed recess to accommodate a stitched leather insert. This element is not only aesthetic but also a celebration of the brand's DNA, incorporating upholstery and stitching into side tables, highlighting attention to detail and quality. This combination of materials and design results in a table that is not only functional but also a statement piece, perfect for spaces seeking exclusivity and elegance.

LUME SOFA

LUME SOFA

The Lume sofa is one of those rare pieces that are born classic. Its differentials start with the 45° angled chaise, which allows for a bolder layout in the living room, stepping away from the traditional rectangular chaise. Its backrests are loose, and the fixed seats have a greater sense of firmness and are slightly higher than other sofa models, making it easier to sit and stand up.

PUPA ARMCHAIR

PUPA ARMCHAIR

Pupa, by Crystian Freiberger – Like a cocoon that protects and embraces, the Pupa armchair presents an original concept for individual seating. With organic lines, its design aims to serve living and home spaces, including more intimate areas like bedrooms. The fiberglass backrest adds both lightness and durability to the piece, which features another innovation: it is swivel. Reinforcing the comfort look, the armchair is made with foam layers in the seat, while the backrest features a hypersoft foam cushion for a high level of softness.

YAK SOFA-BED

YAK SOFA-BED

Yak, by Ricardo Barddal – The Yak sofa, originally named Eskimó, is a piece inspired by the shapes of igloos, the traditional dwelling of the Inupyak people, who inhabit the Arctic region, the coldest place on Earth. The rounded and organic lines are a strong trend in décor, as the absence of right angles contributes to the creation of more fluid environments. In addition, the piece offers different modular options, including an extensive, welcoming, and comfortable round chaise, as well as curved and straight modules in various sizes. A new version in the bed format is available in the Metamoforse Collection.

PACIFIC SOFA

PACIFIC SOFA

Pacific by Ricardo Barddal – The PACIFIC sofa was born from the “Double Side” concept, a strong trend in décor where a single sofa simultaneously serves two different environments. Yet always one step ahead in innovation, Bell’Arte developed a “Side-to-Side” backrest system, in which—through a touch-activated electric mechanism—the backrests move from one side to the other, allowing each user to precisely adjust the seat depth that best suits the moment, on either side of the sofa.

ROCKY SOFA

ROCKY SOFA

Rocky by Ricardo Barddal – Revolutionary. That's the word that best defines the ROCKY sofa bed. Unlike conventional sofa beds, which simply switch between sofa and double-bed modes, the Rocky sofa is a true 5-in-1 marvel of versatility! An exclusive mechanism—developed in-house by Bell'Arte—allows a sofa with clean lines and slim arms to transform into two armchairs, one armchair and one chaise, two chaises, two single beds, or one double bed. In its open configuration, the model even offers a convenient coffee table equipped with a USB port.

YAK SOFA

YAK SOFA

Yak by Ricardo Barddal – The Yak sofa, named after the Eskimo term, draws its inspiration from the form of igloos, the traditional dwellings of the Inupyak people who inhabit the Arctic's frigid expanse. Its rounded, organic lines are a strong trend in contemporary décor, as the absence of right angles helps create more fluid environments. On top of that, the piece offers a variety of configurations, including an expansive, cozy, and comfortable circular chaise, as well as curved and straight modules in different dimensions. A new bed-style version is also available in the Metamorphosis Collection.

ARMCHAIR GEL

ARMCHAIR GEL

The Gel armchair celebrates the creativity of Brazilian furniture design. Signed by Larissa Diegoli, the piece originated from the observation of how a drop of gel spreads organically when it falls and touches the surface. An armchair to sit in, to snuggle in and to impress; highlighting the rotating base that provides greater interaction and integration of environments.

ARMCHAIR REFÚGIO

ARMCHAIR REFÚGIO

Refuge, in the figurative sense, is a place of support, where we feel protected. From the masculine noun came the inspiration for creating this almost feminine piece, which combines robustness with a design of soft lines – like a cozy lap, ready to receive. On one of the arms, a woody element serves as a side table while the ottoman complements the composition, prolonging its comfort.

SOFA AURORA

SOFA AURORA

Fly through the morning skies, heralding the start of a new day. This was the function of Aurora, the goddess of the morning in Roman mythology responsible for inspiring the creation of this upholstery that combines a base with firm lines with seats and backs with organic features, reminiscent of the softness of the first rays of dawn. The model is made up of foam with a density that provides ideal comfort for a living room sofa, and carbon steel legs with a discreet design. Between the modules, the backless seat plays with the visual harmony of the piece, making the Aurora an authentic decorative element.

SOFA LUI

With an 80s feel, the Lui sofa brings a rigor to its shape that is broken by the asymmetry and variation of the arms, sometimes round, sometimes materialized in a generous rectangular block. The structure of the sofa, completely covered in leather, already offers the necessary support on one of the sides, acting as a table made of folded steel sheet and covered with natural wood veneer.

BOBY SOFA

BOBY SOFA

With an informal proposal, the Boby sofa comes with unstructured and loose seat, back and arm cushions. Its goose down filling offers extra comfort and warmth, molding to the body. Its horizontality is marked by the steel base that provides enough structure for it to be supported by thin plates covered in natural leather. This feature gives visual lightness to the piece and, despite its informality, creates a certain grandeur.

CHARRUA ARMCHAIR

CHARRUA ARMCHAIR

The Charrua armchair (a name that refers to the warrior Indian tribes of the Gaucho pampas), brings in its concept and look references of pure Brazilianness. Its lines - which intuitively refer to the work of master Sérgio Rodrigues, are not the result of chance. The idea was to capture small details of shapes and curves present in the master's pieces - which is and will always be a reference when it comes to Brazilian design. The Charrua armchair, therefore, more than a piece of furniture, is a tribute to the one who influenced a generation of designers and of which I am part.

PATER ARMCHAIR

PATER ARMCHAIR

Pater means daddy in Latin and the design of the piece represents a personal moment for designer Everton Souza with fatherhood. Wild and totally timeless - it is impossible to determine, at first glance, whether the armchair is current or from the 70s - it presents a reinterpretation of Dad's traditional armchair and has a back and seat with feathers and foams of different densities, as well as an exclusive detail : original brass screws machined especially for the armchair, as well as the added ottoman for greater foot comfort.
