Traditional visions and values of a Hopi

3

A Hopi is one whose lifetime quest is to gain strength and wisdom through prayer, education, and experience; to acquire a practical and spiritual understanding of life in general; and to acquire the ability to address life's circumstances and community needs from an eagle's viewpoint with a caring attitude and humility.

A Hopi is one who fulfills the meaning of Kyaptsi by maintaining the highest degree of respect for and obedience to moral standards and ethics, so as not to knowingly abuse, alter, or oppose the progressive order and cycle of nature and the sacred manifestations of the Creator's teachings.

A Hopi is one who fulfills the meaning of Sumi'nangwa and will come together to do activities for the benefit of all, out of a compelling desire and commitment to contribute or return something of value or benefit to society.

A Hopi is one who fulfills the meaning of Nami'nangwa by helping one another or giving aid in times of need, without having to be asked to do so and without expecting compensation for the deed.

A Hopi is one who fulfills the meaning of Hita'nangwa by having the initiative to take care of something without having to be instructed, asked, or reminded, regardless of whether anyone will notice the effort, but knowing that it will make a difference.

A Hopi is one who understands that Pasi'nangwa means having characteristics of humility, modesty, patience, etc., and possessing the ability to think things through carefully and thoroughly before reacting to or voicing opinions on issues.

A Hopi is one who places society's and/or the community's interests and benefits ahead of individual and personal interests and gains.

A Hopi is one who understands that to realize a dream, one must not only pray for one's desires but must also make a sincere commitment and work diligently to pursue the dream or goal until it is achieved.

A Hopi is one who understands that the Creator has provided all the necessary resources needed by all living beings to co-exist here, including the means by which the human race can achieve a happy, healthy, and self-sustaining life.

A Hopi is one who understands that the greatest feeling of accomplishment and fulfillment is participation in social and community functions or activities, and knowing that one's contributions have resulted in benefits to the community and its people.
