The JACK SALOON

LOLO, MONTANA

The Lumberjack was originally built to be a bar, and our kitchen remains very small. If you look through the opening at the north end of the bar, you can see the entire kitchen. Our food is freshly prepared and made to order, and while it's delicious, it can take a little extra time when we're busy.

Ask your server about everything happening at The Jack — from cozy cabin rentals and upcoming events to exclusive Jack Saloon merch and more. There's always something worth exploring while you're here. Kick back, relax, have a drink, and enjoy.

GUARANTEED LIVE MUSIC EVERY SATURDAY NIGHT!

HISTORY OF # The JACK SALOON

Construction on The Jack Saloon—originally known as The Lumberjack—began in 1972 by Don and Mary Ellen Babcock with help from many of their logger friends. Built entirely from cedar logs taken from just over the Idaho border, the structure was completed and opened in 1974. The name was later changed from The Lumberjack to The Jack Saloon for legal reasons.

The large, beautiful bar is carved from a single massive log, hollowed out to create space for bar service. It was set in place first, and the log walls were built around it. The massive fireplace was not part of the original construction; it was added later using stones collected from Graves Creek.

The Lumberjack was truly a bar built by lumberjacks, for lumberjacks—a place in the woods where they could relax and unwind.

The iconic bar was featured in the 2013 film Best Bar in America. It was the only bar in the film quoted as saying, “See, isn’t this the best bar in America?”

Stefanie and Kyle Demmitt purchased The Jack Saloon in November 2025 and along with their three kids and relocated here from Colville, Washington. Their goal is to continue the legacy of this historic saloon with live music, events, good times, and great memories.

Today, The Jack Saloon is an iconic destination in Western Montana. Our loyal customers include locals as well as visitors from around the world. Many guests have stories to share about their experiences at The Jack. Memories can still be found on the walls, timber beams, posts, and in the guest books located by the back door.

Many people remember the walls once being covered in dollar bills and often ask if we will bring that tradition back. We will not, as it was harmful to the bark and the structural integrity of the building. The dollar bills were donated to the Tunnel to Towers Foundation, which provides mortgage-free housing for veterans, first responders, and their families. The buck head above the fireplace contains many of the bills that were not redeemable.
