OUR MISSION STATEMENT

To honor the Lord as Servants of Christ and Stewards of the mysteries of God by spreading his message of Love, Hope, Faith and Respect. In trusting his message, our diverse community will always remain united and be guided by the Holy Spirit, to encourage and support the development of the Sacramental Life and by being a community open to others that are coming in search of Christ's love and teachings.

GOSPEL REFLECTION

Today's Gospel presents us with one of the most beautiful and, at the same time, most challenging parables of Jesus: the Parable of the Wedding Feast. Jesus tells us about a king who prepares a wedding feast for his son. The meal is ready. The invitations have gone out. Everything has been prepared. The king sends his servants to call the invited guests, but they refuse to come.

The king sends other servants, saying, in effect, "Everything is ready. Come to the feast." But the invited guests ignore the invitation. Some go about their business. Others mistreat and even kill the servants. The king is angry, and eventually he opens the feast to others. He sends his servants into the streets and gathers everyone they can find—both good and bad—until the wedding hall is filled with guests.

Then comes the surprising part. The king enters and sees a man who is not wearing a wedding garment. He asks him how he came into the feast without the proper garment. The man has nothing to say. He is thrown out. And Jesus concludes with those words: "Many are invited, but few are chosen." This parable speaks about an invitation. It speaks about God's generosity.
It speaks about our freedom to accept or reject God's grace. And it reminds us that receiving an invitation is not the same thing as responding to it.

The kingdom of God is compared to a wedding banquet. A wedding is normally a celebration of love, communion, joy, family, friendship, and new life. Jesus is telling us something profound about God. God does not ultimately desire that we live in fear of Him. God desires communion with us. He wants us at His table. He wants us to share His joy. He wants us to enter into a relationship with Him. The Christian life is therefore not merely about following a list of rules.
It is about being invited into a relationship with God. God is not simply saying, "Here are some commandments. Follow them." He is saying: "Come. Come into my presence. Come to my table. Come and share my life." That is the heart of the Gospel. The kingdom is described as a feast because salvation is communion with God.

The king says to his servants: "Behold, I have prepared my banquet." Notice the words: I have prepared. God takes the initiative. Before we ever begin searching for God, God is already searching for us. Before we ever think about prayer, God is already calling us. Before we ever decide to return to Him, He is already waiting for us. Before we can earn anything, God has already given us grace. Christianity begins not with our achievement but with God's initiative. We sometimes imagine that we must somehow make ourselves worthy before approaching God. We tell ourselves: "I need to get my life together first."

"I need to become a better person first." "Then I will pray." "Then I will come back to church."
"Then I will return to God." But the Gospel gives us the opposite message. Come now. God has already prepared the feast. God knows our weaknesses. God knows our failures. God knows our sins. And still He says: Come.

Let God's grace change the way you think, the way you speak, the way you treat your family, the way you treat strangers, the way you handle money, the way you respond to suffering, and the way you forgive those who have hurt you.
And when the King looks upon us, may He see people who have not merely heard His invitation but have answered it with their whole lives.
