

The Prickly Pair

A comic walkabout street theatre act

Two glum cacti in search of reasons to be cheerful, and someone to share them with.

The Prickly Pair

Being a cactus isn't all sunshine, something Spike and Prickolas know all too well. After catching a mild cactus mite infestation and an unfortunate mishap burst their favourite beach ball, these comically glum cacti are on the hunt for reasons to be cheerful.

Refusing to let life wilt them, the Prickly Pair are convinced today is the day things start looking up, though they may need a little help believing it. Armed with arid humour, spiky silliness and a supply of positive cacti affirmations, they put down roots wherever they go, letting friendly conversations flourish and gathering up every seed of cheer they can find. With every sprouted smile and joyous joke, Spike and Prickolas find that even the driest of days can bloom into moments of joy.

About the act

The Prickly Pair is a comic walkabout act featuring a pair of cacti with a talent for striking up conversation. The act combines verbal comedy, gentle silliness and warm interaction with audiences, inviting people to reflect on the small things they are grateful for. Eye catching and instantly photogenic, The Prickly Pair is a feel good act that leaves audiences smiling.
