Parents Responsibilities in Managing Children with Depression

To provide the best care possible to your child, regular reassessment and close follow-up is essential. As such, Camelback Pediatrics has the following requirements:

Parents agree to bring the child into the office every 3 months for re-evaluation. These appointments are needed to ensure the treatment is working as anticipated and to review any potential side effects which may occur. At least one parent must accompany the child at this visit. Refills for medication will not be provided without timely follow-up examinations. This visit should be scheduled no later than 1 month prior to when you expect to need a refill.

The process for obtaining your child's depression medication refills:

If available, we will provide 90 days of medication refills at your follow-up visits – this is based on your insurance company's guidelines. All prescriptions are sent to your pharmacy electronically. Your pharmacy will NOT remind you when to come in to pick up your child's medication. It is your responsibility to remember to pick up your prescriptions on the fill date.
