Twenty-Second Sunday In Ordinary Time

Hello Friends,

Happy Labor Day to everyone! This weekend Ottoville welcomes family and friends and visitors to the annual Park Carnival. We are particularly grateful to the leaders and community volunteers for all their work!

"The Park has come a long way," is a common refrain from lifelong residents. So many people (past and present) have had a hand in making the Ottoville Park what it is today. We appreciate in particular how many young people and their families and supporters have contributed as well! Just this year, two Girl Scout Projects have made an immediate impact: Bathroom Renovation (Rachel Steffan) and Pickleball Court (Isabelle Moreno). And another amazing project is also coming to fulfillment, Nick Brandeberry's Veterans Memorial Eagle Scout Project! Check these projects out! There were numerous recent Ottoville High School graduates (and Immaculate Conception Parishioners) who have had impacts as well (see a recent FB post). This is remarkable and something for the community to be very proud of. We are grateful for all the hard workers and forward-thinking leaders (of all generations) within our communities.

And as we honor the meaning of Labor Day, we also recall the pope who stood at the forefront of addressing the topic of the dignity of work and workers, Pope Leo XIII. Our current pope has chosen to honor this particular predecessor by choosing his name. (Pope Leo XIV was also inspired by the original Pope Leo I who is considered one of the saviors of Rome.) Pope Leo XIII was one of the longest reigning popes in history (1878 -1903) and he was one of the most prolific in writing papal encyclicals (he wrote more about the rosary than any pope in history). And, along with composing The St. Michael the Archangel Prayer, he is known for his magisterial teaching Rerum Novarum (On Capital and Labor). In it he defended the dignity of all workers and he called for the protection of everyone from modern forms of exploitation and slavery. He taught that all workers had a right to work and they also deserved a living wage, anything less would be cruel. He wanted common people to be given the opportunities, through their labor, to have happy and secure financial lives. In saying this he also spoke against state control (against socialism and what would become communism). The pope also advocated for private property rights of persons (and family's) as a means of personal flourishing. Pope Leo XIII was an example of a pope taking a position on the social and even political issues of the time and being willing to "take some of the heat" to defend common people. Our current pope, Leo XIV, coming from a humble background and having worked with diverse people in America and in Peru, likely chose this name as a sign that he will also be an advocate for the common person as well.

And, lastly, something interesting about Pope Leo XIII. He himself was a tireless worker (like Pope Francis was and like Pope Leo XIV). And you may be surprised to know that, even in his advanced years, he drank heavily of an "energy drink" known as Mariani Wine. I won't say all the ingredients it contained, but I will say there is no way it would be sold over the counter today! Pope Leo even awarded the founder (of the drink) with a papal honor. Right or wrong, even one of our most historic popes needed extra non-spiritual assistance to find the energy to do a full day's work! Happy Labor Day! –Fr. George Mahas—

Congratulations to Our Local Scouts!

We are proud to recognize the accomplishments of three young members of our community who have recently completed their scouting service projects:

- Rachel Steffan's Girl Scout Gold Award project was upgrading the restrooms at Ottoville Park
- Isabelle Moreno's Girl Scout Gold Award project focused on the pickleball courts.
- Nick Brandeberry's Eagle Scout project involved updating and expanding the flagpole area and adding a monument to honor American service men and women.

Thank you Rachel, Isabelle, and Nick, for sharing your time and talents to make lasting improvements for our community!
