

Guest Author Guidelines for Wildlife Capture and Care Blog

Global Wildlife Resources (GWR) invites you to be a guest author for the progressive Wildlife Capture and Care Blog. Share your field experience and knowledge. Help us improve wildlife capture and handling. Share your story, tool, technique, protocol or attitudes to improve animal care, efficiency in the field, or success as a wildlife professional.

Topics can be related to wildlife conservation, capture, or chemical immobilization.

Entertain! Inspire! Teach!

Blog article should be 400-800 words or so with 2 images or 1 image & 1 video (3 min max). Please provide a short bio (60 words or so) and how you wish to be cited. Each author will be fully cited and your bio and a bio picture will be placed at the end of the article.

Please send us your draft as a Word or Google doc. If you wish, I can provide you with a Google Drive folder link to easily share your video and images.

GWR may edit your blog article for readability but author will have final say on the exact blog article posted. By providing content in the form of text, photos, and video to GWR for the blog article, the author has permission to use the content as they choose unless otherwise specified by the author.

Please have fun with this. What would you like to share with a seasoned professional or an aspiring student? What tool or technique or protocol of yours will help others? What values are important to you to improve and strengthen the culture of the wildlife profession or to be a successful wildlife professional?

Thank you! Contact me anytime with questions or just to visit. I am excited to have your generous participation.

Dr. Mark

Mark R. Johnson DVM
Global Wildlife Resources
PO Box 1025, Freeland, WA 98249
Email: mjohnson@wildliferesources.com
Website: www.WildlifeCaptureandCare.com
Cell phone: 406.570.3915