FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Update to March 3, 2026 Release: NSN Global Services Confirms Service Development Remains Robust and Fully Unaffected by the Situation in the Middle East.

Following our earlier statement on March 3, 2026 regarding heightened cybersecurity risks in the Middle East, NSN Global Services is pleased to provide this positive update.

To date, and after continuous monitoring of the regional situation, no NSN Global Services systems, platforms, or customer services have experienced any direct issues or disruptions related to the conflict. Our enhanced cybersecurity protocols, zero-trust architecture, multi-layered encryption, real-time monitoring, and geographic diversification of infrastructure have proven fully effective.

As a result, NSN Global Services confirms that our services are robust and we do not expect them be affected moving forward. We have successfully mitigated all identified risks, and operations continue without interruption.

“Our team acted decisively to protect our digital infrastructure, and the outcome is exactly what we hoped for: uninterrupted development of services for our customers and partners worldwide,” said Euan Hallifax, Founder and CEO. “NSN Global Services remains fully operational, committed to our mission of advancing digital literacy, technological innovation, and youth empowerment across the globe including the Middle East. We look forward to accelerating our education and reconstruction-focused initiatives once the region stabilizes.”

NSN Global Services will continue to monitor the situation closely but expects no further impact on our global education-technology programs. Stakeholders can be confident that our platforms and services will remain fully available and secure.
