False Compassion

Any parent can tell you that it is often in the best interest of a child to say, "No", or, "That is not good for you. The stove is hot! Don't touch it!" Sometimes it requires more love to say "no" than "yes" to a child's request. At the same time, giving someone what they want, or acceptance of a lifestyle contradictory to the faith, is neither compassionate nor merciful. True compassion must not leave a person in a sinful state. From Holy Scripture we see that the Lord showed the woman who was caught in adultery compassion. He told her that he did not condemn her, but he then told her to go and sin no more. Jesus makes it clear that conversion must be a part of forgiveness. Jesus did not tell her that she was forgiven and that he would walk with her in her sin; no, he told her to go and sin no more, to change her lifestyle.

I was not at the recent Synod on the Family that happened in Rome, however, I do know that some of the talks dealt with divorced and remarried catholics and with ministering to people with homosexual tendencies. I heard a lot about forgiveness and mercy, but I have heard very little about sin and conversion. Simply put, you cannot talk about true forgiveness without including conversion. Some bishops made reference to respecting a person's conscience, however, such a conscience must be formed by Holy Scripture and the teachings of the Church.

As the Catechism States:

1790 - A human being must always obey the certain judgment of his conscience. If he were deliberately to act against it, he would condemn himself. Yet it can happen that moral conscience remains in ignorance and make erroneous judgments about acts to be performed or already committed.
1791 - This ignorance can often be imputed to personal responsibility. This is the case when a man "takes little trouble to find out what is true and good, or when conscience is by degrees almost blinded through the habit of committing sin." In such cases, the person is culpable for the evil he commits.

A teacher of the faith cannot simply walk with someone who states they are following their conscience, especially when their conscience has led them on a path of error and sin. A true teacher must correct and help a person change their way of thinking. For example, it is a truth that two + two = four. If a person tells me that his or her conscience tells them that two + two = seven, their erroneous way of thinking does not change the truth. Allowing someone to remain in their ignorance without correcting them is not compassion.

With regards to divorced and remarried catholics, or those in a homosexual union, we are dealing with a perpetual sinful situation that must be corrected. In the case of the divorced and remarried catholics, the annulment process must be explored. With regards to the homosexual union, the bond must be broken. Simply put, a person with homosexual tendencies must be treated with respect, compassion, and sensitivity. Homosexuality is not a sin. However, homosexual acts are sinful. Therefore, those in a "gay marriage" are in a perpetual state of sin. Giving Holy Eucharist to those remarried, or in a homosexual union, is not the answer. Holy Eucharist gives grace, but that grace is blocked by sin. The spiritual benefits of receiving the body and blood of Jesus is blocked by those who deliberately approach the sacrament in an unworthy manner.

St. Paul says:

Therefore whoever eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord unworthily will have to answer for the body and blood of the Lord. A person should examine himself, and so eat the bread and drink the cup. For anyone who eats and drinks without discerning the body, eats and drinks judgment on himself. (1Corinthians 11: 27-29)

It has been said by a church leader that the teachings of the church should not be used to bludgeon people over the head. That is true. Teaching must be done compassionately. However, we must not use the words, "compassionate," or the phrase, "I was being pastoral," as a doorway to acceptance of sin. Allowing a person to remain in sin without helping them out of sin is the sign of a poor shepherd. Causing scandal, or unnecessary confusion among the faithful, is a sign of a poor shepherd. Not upholding the teachings of Holy Mother Church, especially when your office puts you in a place of authority, is a sign of a poor shepherd. Let us pray for our leaders. May they be good shepherds.

Finally, if we hold that the Catholic Church teachings are divinely inspired, then, upholding those teachings and calling the faithful to them is the most compassionate act a baptized person can do for a brother or sister. We are not called to judge people, but we are called to judge actions. Fraternal correction is not easy and often not well liked, but, it is often necessary. What is at stake in this spiritual battle is eternal salvation. Let us be courageous to speak, live, and teach the truths of our faith.

Yours in Christ,

Fr. George

WE LONG TO SEE GOD'S FACE

"Lord, this is the people that longs to see your face." This antiphon for today's responsorial psalm offers the focus for today's readings. As we on earth celebrate the triumph of all the saints—the ones officially canonized by the Church, and the countless others who have also reached heaven—we add nothing to their glory. But we give ourselves reason to hope. We too long to see the face of God and believe that we can one day be counted among those whose robes, as John tells us in the book of Revelation, are washed "white in the blood of the Lamb."

The passage from John's First Letter offers further assurance: we are God's children who will one day see God. But today's Gospel pulls us past longing and reassurance into action. Jesus clearly tells us what we must do to be counted among the saints. We must be poor in spirit, hungry for holiness, merciful, single-hearted, and peacemakers! Then we too will see the face of God.

Prayer with Scripture

We invite you to an encounter of prayer where you can stop from the hurry of the moment and listen to God through God's Word, in silence, meditation, adoration and contemplation. In this short but intense time, we listen to a talk that introduces us into the understanding of the Word of God, which later, we reflect on and meditate in an attitude of faith, discovering what God is trying to reveal to us. The prayer is accompanied by the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament with songs to help the faithful enter more into prayer.

As the deer longs for streams of water, so my soul longs for you, O God. Psalm 42,2

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

The Irish are rightly tired of being the subject of jokes about guilt. In fact, it is from the Celtic church that the whole experience of reconciliation in our tradition was creatively rescued and revived. The Irish church was unique in its origins, not so much organized around dioceses, but around monasteries. Aspects of religious community life readily spilled over into ordinary gatherings of the faithful, including the way people looked at sin and applied remedies. Unlike the public nature of canonical penance, the Irish method was linked to a kind of mentoring process they called "soul friending." Just as young novice monks might find a mentor in the wisdom of a senior guide, so did a way of penance open up to ordinary folks. Monks were accustomed to frequent confession of faults to the abbot or mentor, who would suggest penances. In time, abbots with a certain flair for this began to share lists of sins and corresponding "tariffs" with others. Some of these books survive, and provide a hair□raising view of long□ago sins like cattle rustling, and a great deal of self□correction involving dips in icy streams and rolling about in thickets of thorns. After the penance was performed, the penitent returned to the confessor, and in a private act marked by the laying on of hands, or perhaps a kiss of the altar, the sinner was restored.

Irish monks were committed travelers, and their methods were widely copied. We might say that they saved a sacrament, but at the expense of shifting attention to the sins of the individual and away from the actions of the reconciling community. —Rev. James Field, Copyright © J. S. Paluch Co.

We ask all of our parishioners, if you have a loved one serving in the military, to please contact the rectory office to give us the name of the soldier, so the whole parish can pray for your loved one. A book in the church vestibule is available for inscribing the names of all military personnel. This book will be part of the offertory procession from now until the war is over.

A PRAYER

LORD, HOLD OUR TROOPS IN YOUR LOVING HANDS.
PROTECT THEM AS THEY PROTECT US.
BLESS THEM AND THEIR FAMILIES
FOR THE SELFLESS ACTS THEY PERFORM
FOR US IN OUR TIME OF NEED.
WE ASK THIS IN THE NAME OF
JESUS OUR LORD AND SAVIOR. AMEN

We pray for our loved ones who are serving in any branch of the Armed Forces during this time of conflict.

OUR MISSION STATEMENT

Our mission as Catholics united in faith at St. Eugene Parish is to help bring God to people and people to God. Through evangelization, education and being of service to each other, we strive to make our parish community a holistic community in body, mind and spirit. It is our goal to develop, support, encourage and empower one another in our parish ministries, so that each person can reach their human and Christian potential. We are enthused about the future of St. Eugene and the whole Catholic Church and we pledge our participation in that future. We seek dialogue and open communication with all parishioners in fulfilling the needs of our parish. While recognizing the cultural diversities in our community, we will strive to bring all people together in Christ under a common bond of faith, hope and love.
