SCHOOL LUNCHESES GATHER POSITIVE RESPONSES FROM STUDENTS!

Mid way through February, senior volunteers infiltrated the school's kitchen to continue providing lunches for the other students. Teachers have expressed their positive feelings about the change, claiming they are proud of what the group of volunteers have accomplished. Student feedback has been in a similar light, with survey results showing a majority vote in a positive direction. Additional comments grazed over the idea of more funding for the lunch volunteers, with some arguing they'd be able to make a good lunch even greater with more financial support. With very little criticism displayed in the overall feedback, student run school lunches have been deemed a great success since its launch. Keep up the good work, Dragons!!

KAPS Accommodates the Lack of Enthusiasm Around School?!

The KAPS staff decided a change was in order once they noticed schools were going out of style. They decided to consult the Head of Cool, Ms. J, who informed them that, "Education is just way past uncool, man." After much consideration, the KAPS staff converted KAPS into something much better than a school. This, of course, was a doghouse. KAPS now stands for Kool and Awesome Puppies Sanctuary. KAPS has become the best doghouse of all time, housing many dogs. This came with some unforeseen events. You see, all of the students could no longer enter KAPS because they were (mostly) human instead of dogs. Oh, you want to go to KAPS? Trying to invade the doghouse? You're not a dog?! Dogs can't read! Get out of here! So, students who still wished to attend promptly began the search for Dog Surgery. They consulted the snails that resided in the Snurch. The snuns snadvised they visit THE Sonic. The KAPS students were able to track down Sonic, who was sitting atop a mountain listening to Justin Bieber's Little Drummer Boy. "Please, make us dogs, Sonic!" Cried the KAPS students. "Dogs? Like, chili dogs? Heh, chili dogs!" Sonic said and promptly exploded. Luckily, the explosion released a Dog chemical that Dog'd everyone. Everywhere. Even me, I've bewoof woof woOF WOOF WOOF WOOFOW FOWOWOOF!!!! WOOF!!!!

Sammy's bird of the month! Black Palm Cockatoo

Bird explanation

The black palm cockatoo is the largest in the cockatoo family, with a wingspan of 65cm. It's beak perpetually open, the black palm cockatoo eats berries fruits and nuts with a bite force of about 400 psi. the tropical rainforest is where the cockatoo resides, locations found being Cape York Peninsula of northern Australia, the Aru Islands, Papua New Guinea.

[Probosciger aterrimus]

These birds are also drummers! They fashion sticks into drumsticks and create their own beats to impress potential mates. Every male has his own beat!
