MY STREET PHOTOGRAPHY EXPERIENCE

I'm an analog street photographer who shoots digitally, using modern technology to photograph the old fashioned way.

I've been using smartphones exclusively for over 12 years, and although I shoot digitally, I usually don't shoot much, almost as if I still had 24 or 36 exposure film.

My street photography involves walking a lot and observing a lot, being respectful, curious, and eager to simply share what I experience and observe every day.

I believe that the purpose of photography itself is to create photographs, to take them; how and with what medium is a purely relative matter, and the "why" of taking them is always much more important.
