Useless negative ads

I was saddened to receive in today's mail a negative ad impugning the character of Oregon State Senate candidate Denise Krause. Like the man behind the ad, Bruce Starr, Ms. Krause has honorably served the public for many years.

The salacious ad is demeaning not only to Ms. Krause but also to the Republican party. It is shameful that the PAC of a former Republican state senator would spend time and money on such an ad when so many of his colleagues are still waiting for full transparency on the Trump-Epstein files.

Time and money would be better spent on positing the platform of Ms. Krause's Republican opponent so people can make informed choices on kitchen table issues. It seems to me that someone other than Ms. Krause needs to do a better job vetting political consultants.
