

EXPLORE TOGETHER FAQs

Q: When does Explore Together begin?

A: The next Explore Together cohort kicks off Monday, October 19 and goes through November 16.

Q: How long does this virtual community last?

A: This coach-led cohort will last five weeks. But we encourage you to continue exploring missions with our coaches and those you meet through the cohort after Explore Together ends.

Q: What does a typical week entail?

A: We will post resources on a specific mission-related topic at the beginning of each week. After engaging with these materials, we encourage you to share your insights online and interact with fellow participants. Beyond these weekly resources, we'll host virtual gatherings each week, offering a space to deepen our discussions and connect more personally about our learning experiences.

Q: When are the virtual meetups scheduled?

A: Our virtual meetups will occur on weekday evenings (Eastern Time) and last between 60 to 90 minutes.

Q: How much time will I need for the weekly resources?

A: Recognizing the busy lives of our participants, we've designed the weekly engagement to be meaningful yet manageable, aiming for an hour or less each week.

Q: What if I can't engage every week or attend a virtual meetup?

A: We hope you can join us weekly, but understand that might not always be possible. If you miss a week, no one is taking attendance or removing you from the cohort. We encourage open communication; if you anticipate regular absences, please inform us so we can connect with you individually to help you process what you are learning and benefit from the experience.
