Southampton, England

The south of England boasts a dramatic coastline that encloses some of the most beautiful countryside in Britain. The landscape of hills and heaths, downs and forests, valleys and dales, is without rival. Southampton serves as your gateway to the countryside - and to a wide variety of historic sites, national landmarks and charming. And of course, London is a two-hour drive by modern highway. The United Kingdom's premier passenger ship port, Southampton was home for many years to the great transatlantic liners of yesteryear. Points of interest: Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey, Big Ben/ Parliament Buildings, London Eye, Thames River Cruise, Stonehenge, Salisbury,

Edinburgh, Scotland

South Queensferry is the gateway to Edinburgh, the political, commercial and cultural heart of Scotland. Nestled between the Highlands and the Border Hills, Edinburgh is a gracious city noted for its superb skyline, its impressive collection of architecture and its beautiful parks. The streets of the elegant New Town are lined with graceful Georgian buildings, many designed by the great architect Robert Adam. Edinburgh has also exerted a tremendous cultural force on Europe and the English-speaking world. The International Festival has been one of the premier European cultural events for over half a century. Among those who have called the city home are the writers, Robert Burns, James Boswell, and Sir Walter Scott and the philosophers, Adam Smith and David Hume. To stroll the streets of Edinburgh is to experience one of the world's great cities. Note: South Queensferry is an anchorage port. Passengers transfer to shore via ship's tender. Points of interest: Royal Mile & Edinburgh Castle, Princess Street, Royal Yacht Britannia, Stirling, St. Andrews, etc.

Skjolden/Sognefjord's

Olden Norway

By the mid-19th century, European travelers were cruising the waters of the Nordfjord and visiting the village of Olden. The Romantic Movement inspired this new taste for dramatic landscape - and Norway had plenty of dramatic landscape. Then as now, travelers were impressed, moved, and not frequently overwhelmed by the stark contrast between peaceful rural farmsteads and a towering wilderness of mountain peaks and glaciers. For many years Olden was home to American landscape artist William H. Singer (1868-1943). Scion of a Pittsburgh steel family, Singer provided Olden with a road and a regional hospital. Points of Interest: Jostedalbreen National Park, Nordfjord, Briksdal Glacier, Leon, Kjenndalen Glacier, Lake Lovatn, Olden Lake, Oldevatnet.

Trondheim Norway

Trondheim is the third largest - and second oldest - city in Norway. The town was originally called Kaupangen upon its founding in 997 A.D. by Viking king Olav Tryggvason. The city commands the trade routes linking Southern Norway with the fjord lands to the north. Trondheim quickly became a major commercial and cultural center - the city served as Norway's royal capital. Trondheim's old city features broad avenues and attractive 17th-century wood buildings - a legacy of the rebuilding that followed a disastrous fire that leveled the city in 1681. Points of Interest: Nidaros Cathedral, Archbishop's Palace, Ringve Museum, Trondelag Museum, Trolley Ride, Stiftsgarden, Lokken Mines.

Honningsvag (North Cape) Norway

Honningsvag is your gateway to Norway's North Cape on Magerøya Island. This is the northernmost point in Europe, and the true land of the midnight sun. From mid-May to July, the full disc of the sun never dips below the horizon. In winter, the days barely lighten to a spectral gloom. To the north lies only the remote Svalbard Archipelago, Jan Mayan Island, and the polar ice cap. From the cliffs of North Cape, perched 1,000 feet above the Arctic Ocean, one stares into the arctic silence. During the summer months, vast reindeer herds roam Magerøya Island's treeless, central plateau. Points of Interest: Bird Watching, Gallery East of the Sun, RIB Ride, King Crab Safari, Mageroya Island.

Tromso Norway

Lying north of the Arctic Circle, Tromsø has been a departure point for Arctic explorers and hunters since the 18th century. Today, this town of some 50,000 individuals is home to the northernmost university in the world, which gives Tromsø a lively cultural and street scene, highlighted by the annual Midnight Sun Marathon. Ride the cable car to the summit of Mt. Storsteinen for dramatic views of Tromsø city and Troms Island. Enjoy refreshments at the panoramic restaurant. Points of Interest: Arctic Cathedral, Cable Car, Polar Museum, Huske Wilderness Camp, Arctic Cruise, Tromso Cathedral.

Molde, Norway

Molde is located north of Bergen with white clapboard houses sitting alongside a sparkling fjord. On a clear day, more than 200 peaks are visible from this part of the Romsdal Peninsula. The Varden Viewpoint is the best place to take in the breathtaking panorama. Even when the weather is less cooperative, there is plenty to do, with cozy cafés, boutiques selling woolen sweaters and the Romsdal Museum, an open-air folk museum where you can literally stroll through the region's history and traditional homes. Molde is also one end of one of Norway's most beautiful coastal drives, the Atlantic Ocean Road which crosses spectacular bridges and a few islands. Around every bend, there are magnificent views of mountain peaks, the Atlantic and the fjords that notch Norway's coast. During the summer months, Molde lives up to its nickname-the City of Roses-with flowers blooming everywhere, from the roof of the town hall and the university grounds to the picket fences around houses. Points of Interest: Atlantic Ocean Road, Trollstigen (Troll's Path), Gudbrandtsjuvet Gorge, Haholmen, Bergtatt Caves, Mold Church, Varden Viewpoint.

Bergen, Norway

Bergen has played a crucial role in Norwegian history and culture since Olav the Good founded the city in 1070. Perched between the sea and seven hills, Bergen has witnessed Vikings setting sail on voyages of exploration, trade and war. In the Middle Ages, its old port was a major trading hub for the Hanseatic League, the band of Germanic merchants whose trading empire encircled the Baltic and North Seas. In the 19th century, Bergen was home to such cultural luminaries as the virtuoso violinist Ole Bull and the composer Edvard Grieg. The city retains much of its 18th- and 19th-century charm. Visitors to Bergen will encounter a city that offers a heady blend of natural beauty, history and culture. Points of Interest: Bryggen, Fish Market, Hardangerfjord, Mt Floien & Funicular, Old Bergen Museum, Troidhaugen, Fantoft Stave Church.
