PORT TOWNSEND VIBRANT ART SCENE WELCOMES THE "DIRTY POWER" HALLOWEEN BALL & ALBUM RELEASE

PORT TOWNSEND, WA — Port Townsend has always boasted a vibrant, fiercely creative art scene, and Halloween has long been a sacred time for the community to let the demons out and let your freak flag fly. Embracing that rebellious spirit, music fans are invited to the Lowire "Dirty Power" Halloween Ball on October 31st.

This 21+ event doubles as the official album release party for the group's latest recording project, Dirty Power. Recorded locally earlier this year at Rainshadow Studios, the new record will drop on all major streaming services at 7:00 PM Pacific time on Halloween night. Attendees can expect go-anywhere cocktails served up by the Legion bar, the usual high-energy dance floor antics, and outrageous Dirty Power-themed costumes. Guests are encouraged to dress as their favorite villain, show off their moves, and join the party.

Lowire drummer Frank DePalma shares the excitement, noting, "I've been playing Halloween shows in Port Townsend since the Town Tavern days and we look forward to it every year. This 7-piece funk band is really firing on all cylinders right now". The momentum built over the summer carries directly into this spooktacular event.

In partnership with the American Legion Hall, this celebration marks the first-ever event produced entirely by the band itself. "We are doing sound, lighting, selling tickets, merchandise and promoting the event with the help of friends," says the band. "This will be a true community event".
