

In the words of the community...

Hamuli is the Personnel Manager at Ingoboka's Gashashi Washing Station. In an interview about his views on the tourism activities, he said the following:

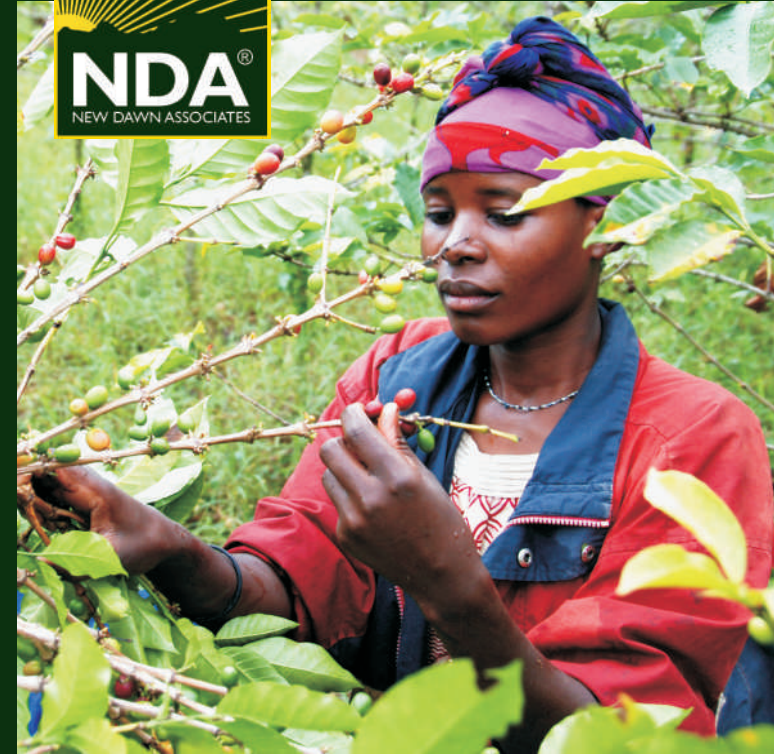

"Most of our workers regret that they never learned to speak the language of the tourists. This has given them a strong incentive to send their children to school and to make sure that they complete their education."

"Before we started with the tourism activities, we knew that coffee was used as a drink, but we never drank it ourselves and didn't know what it tasted like. Learning to roast coffee for tourists on an open fire made us very happy because we can also brew a cup for ourselves and share it with friends and family members who are not working on the washing station."

"We are very happy to have tourists, especially because we believe that after their visit they are more likely to drink coffee from Rwanda. This, in turn, will bring more people to invest in Rwandan coffee, and we'll be able to sell at a fairer price."

The Lake Kivu Coffee Experience

'From crop to cup'

Our Kivu Coffee Experience combines an educational excursion where visitors learn about the coffee growing process with the stunning scenery of Lake Kivu. Its shores are particularly fertile and host a range of plantations where some of the best coffee in the world is grown. In early 2008, we started to collaborate with Ingoboka, a local cooperative of coffee farming families. We have trained some of their members to provide a very personal introduction to coffee growing that will teach you everything you need to know about this complicated process 'from crop to cup'.

Nyamirundi Island:

On Nyamirundi Island, you will visit the plantation of one of Ingoboka's member families. Each coffee plant is hand-raised and cared for by the farmer. Combined with the volcanic soils of the area, this special treatment gives the coffee a full-bodied, yet non-acidic flavor. Ingoboka has a total of 350 members, all of whom own small coffee farms on the shores of the lake and its surroundings.

Gashishi Washing Station:

From the island, you will continue your journey to the nearby Gashishi Washing Station on the shores of the lake. During the main coffee season (March to June), you can experience over 700 men and women working at the station day and night. The process is actually rather complicated and involves over 20 different steps. You will receive a full explanation of this coffee processing, from picking to washing and later roasting, and you will even have the opportunity to pick a few cherries yourself. After a traditional coffee tasting procedure, the boat will return to Gisenyi for lunch.

Community empowerment & benefits

Similar to our other educational excursions, we have empowered members of the local partner community, Ingoboka's coffee growers, to share their skills and experiences with our guests. While an NDA guide provides background information and facilitates the visits, the coffee growers are instrumental and responsible for the activities at their island and washing station. As full partners, they receive their fair share of the benefits - a guaranteed 70% of the profits, like in all other NDA projects.

Benefit sharing mechanism:

- 11 rotating service jobs during the activities
- Direct income for sale of coffee and coffee tasting
- Significant community development fund, reaching 350 members and over 2,000 dependants
