The Gospel challenges us this weekend to give up everything in order to follow Jesus. That can be quite a challenge for us! It also makes it very clear that in doing that, we face sacrifice; sacrificing and giving away things in which we would rather engage. That is a very difficult exercise. There are times when it is much more difficult for us, and we literally do through in the towel. The important thing that Gospel makes clear is that we give it our “best shot” each and every day. We need to take care of ourselves as disciples of Jesus Christ. We need to carry our own cross, not everyone else’s. Of course, we can assist others, and that may be the cross that we have been given. However, we were given our own cross to carry, and that is the cross we should carry.

May God be with us in the week ahead. Many things are happening around us right now. Let us follow God through Jesus Christ into the midst of all that is happening with the assurance that God will be with us as everything unfolds. “Thy will be done.”

God bless us everyone!

Fr. James G. Stembler

El Evangelio nos reta este fin de semana a dejarlo todo para seguir a Jesús. ¡Eso puede ser todo un reto! También deja muy claro que, al hacerlo, nos enfrentamos a sacrificios: sacrificar y renunciar a cosas en las que preferiríamos participar. Es un ejercicio muy difícil. Hay momentos en que nos resulta mucho más difícil, y literalmente nos damos por vencidos. Lo importante que el Evangelio deja claro es que debemos dar lo mejor de nosotros mismos cada día.

Necesitamos cuidarnos como discípulos de Jesucristo. Necesitamos llevar nuestra propia cruz, no la de los demás. Por supuesto, podemos ayudar a otros, y esa puede ser la cruz que nos ha sido encomendada. Sin embargo, se nos encomendó nuestra propia cruz, y esa es la cruz que debemos llevar.

Que Dios nos acompañe en la semana que viene. Muchas cosas están sucediendo a nuestro alrededor ahora mismo. Sigamos a Dios por medio de Jesucristo en medio de todo lo que está sucediendo, con la seguridad de que Dios estará con nosotros en todo lo que suceda. «Hágase tu voluntad».

¡Que Dios nos bendiga a todos!
