

"Eye See You..."

Dear one, please do not linger in doubt. You will find your way again.
Understand that for you to climb to the stars you have to watch your steps.
One by one, closely.
But first, slow down, take a good look around and see where you are right now.
Really.
Be here. Present.
When fully in this now moment, trust your feet, for they know the way.

It might be your desire to instantly reach your destination or goal but instead focus on each little step ahead. The fun is in the small things you know. In the In Betweens. The journey.
Take this time, separating two moves from one and another, to play.
Enjoy. Laugh and cheer. Remember you are a kid at heart. The costs are none, the benefits beyond measure.

When focused again. Continue. Close your eyes. Take a deep breath.
Feel that you are being guided.
Whenever you find it hard to see, know that you are being watched over.
Surrender. Your path will show. And you will conquer that high mountain that seems to block your way. The mountain is the way. Up.

You might also find yourself in an internal battle with oneself. If so, listen to someone that is close to you. You know, the one that fully understands you. Knows your ways of feeling. Gets what you mean and is able to hear your soul speak. You came here, together, to improve. Heal. By committing to this intense soul connection you will overcome that personal issue you are going through. Do not be afraid to look into that mirror.
Whatever you will see you can evolve from.
It could also seem that you are on opposite sides of things but in reality you are just on the one side of the same coin.

Sun and Moon. Earth and Sky. Day or Night. All is One.
There are no mistakes.
All is in perfect balance. Comes in perfect time.
Duality is natural, not something to shy from. All serves a purpose. Together in divine harmony.
Moving on and crossing this enormous obstacle, abundance will find you. On your way you can reclaim your creative energy and find spiritual fulfillment.
Trust and be loyal. Connect. See things for what they truly are. Feel.
Your relationships will thrive. Personal as well as professional.

Now carry on my dear. Your path awaits. Your next step ready to take.
Close your eyes, trust your guided feet and follow...