EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP

I've never encountered a parenting philosophy that rejects discipline altogether. There are lots of conflicting opinions, but I've never heard any parent or parenting "expert" say that a mother or father should completely ignore misbehavior. Consider what the world would look like if it came to be filled with people who had never been taught to reflect on their life challenges. And yet we become this way with God. Even the most "devout" among us shy away from occasions of divine constructive criticism. We avoid confession and forego daily prayer, avoiding depth of heart and real intimacy with God, afraid of what He will speak to us. But when we do this, we rob ourselves of an opportunity to rely on God's fatherly strength, to rest in His mercy, to fill ourselves up with His goodness. We're putting up our hands, saying: "No thanks, Lord, I'm good. You can keep your discipline. You can keep your grace." When we do this, we are making a beeline for the "narrow gate," sure of our own strength and ability to pass through it. All I can say is this, proceed at your own peril. Are you so sure of yourself?

-Tracy Earl Welliver, MTS

Generations of Faith & Service at St. Joseph's

This is a quick shout out of appreciation to all of our parish ministers and volunteers. It's always great to see each and every one of you in action as you use your time and skills to praise God, share faith and serve others. More parishioners are invited to get involved as well. Maybe become a family of ministers. There certainly isn't anything as awesome as active generations of faith!
