

OUR LADY OF THE ASSUMPTION - ST. ANN BY THE SEA

Marshfield, Ma. ~ September 6, 2026

Twenty-fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Peter approached Jesus and asked him, "Lord, if my brother sins against me, how often must I forgive? As many as seven times?" Jesus answered, "I say to you, not seven times but seventy-seven times."

Matthew 18:21-22

*Be as kind and merciful
as the Lord*

First Reading – Sirach 27:30–28:7: “Forgive your neighbor’s injustice; then when you pray, your own sins will be forgiven.”

Responsorial Psalm – Psalm 103: “The Lord is kind and merciful, slow to anger, and rich in compassion.”

Second Reading – Romans 14:7-9: “None of us lives for oneself, and no one dies for oneself. For if we live, we live for the Lord, and if we die, we die for the Lord; so then, whether we live or die, we are the Lord’s.”

Gospel – Matthew 18:21-35: “Lord, if my brother sins against me, how often must I forgive? As many as seven times?”

The Debt We Owe

Mercy and forgiveness should be at the heart of the Christian life.

Yet, as today's First Reading wisely reminds us, often we cherish our wrath, nourish our anger, refuse mercy to those who have done us wrong. Jesus, too, strikes close to home in today's Gospel, with His realistic portrayal of the wicked servant - who won't forgive a fellow servant's debt, even though his own slate has just been wiped clean by their Master.

It can't be this way in the kingdom, the Church. In the Old Testament, "seven" is frequently a number associated with mercy and the forgiveness of sins. The just man sins seven times daily; there is a seven-fold sprinkling of blood for atonement of sins (see Proverbs 24:6; Leviticus 16). But Jesus tells Peter today that we must forgive not seven times, but seventy times seven times.

That means: every time.

We are to be merciful as our Father in heaven is merciful (see Luke 6:36; Matthew 5:48). But why? Why does Jesus repeatedly warn that we can't expect forgiveness for our trespasses unless we're willing to forgive others their trespasses against us?

Because, as Paul reminds us in today's Epistle, we are the Lord's. Each of us has been purchased by the blood of Christ shed for us on the cross (see Revelation 5:9). As we sing in today's Psalm, though we deserved to die for our sins, He doesn't deal with us according to our crimes. The mercy and forgiveness we show to others should be the heartfelt expression of our gratitude for the mercy and forgiveness shown to us.

This is why we should remember our last days, set our enmities aside, and stop judging others. We know that one day we will stand before the judgment seat and give account for what we've done with the new life given to us by Christ (see Romans 14:10,12).

So, we forgive each other from the heart, overlook each other's faults, and await the crown of His kindness and compassion.

It's amazing how the smallest home improvement can make someone feel so much better. A room gets cleaned, a new shelf is installed, an old door gets fixed, or a room gets painted and suddenly everything looks different and feels better. Those small changes can make a big difference in our attitude and the way we look at things. A simple home improvement can make a huge impact and change our whole perspective.

If a physical change can be so dramatic, a better relationship or a more positive attitude or improved communication can be even more dramatic. There are always bumps and bruises in a family. We live together and in such close contact there are sure to be moments of disagreement, irritation and conflict. But when we add forgiveness, tolerance and love, everything changes. We feel better, relieved and relaxed and our whole perspective changes. A little improvement goes a long way in changing our perspective about ourselves and about those we love.

So what holds you back? How difficult can it be to say, "I forgive you" or "I'm sorry"? Does it really matter whose fault it is, or how you got off track. A fresh start—a little in-house improvement—is free for the asking, free for the accepting and priceless for the results. Upgrade your house today. Everyone will benefit.
