

Trump Causes "Anti-Trans Discrimination" in the UK?

By Andrea Brookes March 2025

I have qualified the above title with quotes and a question mark as this is a common practice by the main stream media to protect against libel. There is a case which is being supported by the Good Law Project of unfair dismissal by a trans man against the UK branch of a US legal firm. The argument is that they dismissed this trans man from employment with them purely on the basis of his gender identity and in fear of commercial pressure or legal threats they would experience in the USA from the Trump administration. The legal argument is that such a dismissal was illegal in the UK under the antidiscrimination terms of the Equalities Act. Even though this is a US firm, they have to comply with UK law to operate within the UK.