

Life Launchpad Advisors

Most parents know their teen needs a plan. They just don't know where to start.

We give them one.

Who This Is For

If your high schooler is getting closer to graduation and your family still doesn't have a clear picture of what comes next, you're in the right place.

Most families aren't behind because they don't care. They're behind because nobody handed them a roadmap. The school counselor is stretched thin. Google gives you ten different answers. And your teen shrugs when you ask what they want to do with their life.

That's exactly the situation Life Launchpad Advisors was built for.

- 📄 We work with families from freshman year through graduation, giving you the right guidance at the right time so nothing important gets missed and your student gets to the other side of high school with a real direction.

Monthly Liftoff Success Roadmap

What it is

A monthly guide mailed directly to your home, built for your student's exact grade level.

Each month you get a plain-language plan that tells you what your teen should be focused on right now. Not in a vague way. Specifically. What to research, what to do, what to ask, and what can wait until next month.

No apps. No logins. No videos to watch when you finally have five minutes. Just open it, read it, and know what to do next.

This is the simplest way to stay ahead of the timeline without having to figure it all out yourself.

Just $19 per month.

"The only mistake we made was waiting to join in the winter of junior year. We should have started freshman year."

— Frank and Tammy, former clients

Free Strategy Call

Not sure where your student stands? Start here.

This is a no-pressure conversation where we learn about your teen, look at where they are right now, and give you an honest picture of what the next year or two should look like for your family.

Most parents walk away from this call with two or three things they can act on right away, whether or not they work with us further.

There is no pressure and no obligation. If we think we can help, we'll tell you how. If something else would serve your family better, we'll tell you that too.

The 4-Week Liftoff Challenge

This is where things actually move.

Over four weeks, we work directly with you and your student to build a real plan from scratch. We look at where they are academically, what they're interested in, what kind of future they're drawn toward, and what needs to happen between now and graduation to get them there.

Week by week, we work through the pieces that most families skip because they don't know they matter. By week four, your student has a plan they understand and actually believe in. Not a rough idea. A real direction with real next steps.

Best for families who are done waiting and ready to get serious.

"Trying to decide how to navigate our child's future was stressful. Life Launchpad provided everything we needed."

— Barbara, former client

One-on-One Advisory Support

For families who want someone in their corner as things change.

High school doesn't stay still. New test scores come in. Interests shift. A college visit changes everything. A career your teen was excited about suddenly doesn't seem right anymore.

Always know what to do next

One-on-One Advisory Support gives you ongoing, personalized guidance so you always know what to do next, no matter what comes up.

We know your student

We know your student's situation, we track their progress, and we're available when you need us.

Keep the momentum going

Most families in this program came through the 4-Week Liftoff Challenge and wanted to keep that momentum going all the way through graduation.

Ask us about what continued support looks like for your family.

"We cannot say enough how much we appreciated Life Launchpad and every resource they provide. Could not recommend more."

— Chris, former client

Meet Eric Harter

I started Life Launchpad Advisors because I kept seeing the same thing over and over. Families who genuinely cared about their teen's future, but had no idea what they were supposed to be doing or when. The school system wasn't filling that gap. Neither was Google.

I have a Master's in Education and over ten years of experience working with families through this exact season of life. I've helped students find direction when they had none, build plans they were actually excited about, and graduate with confidence instead of a shrug.

Outside of work, I'm a husband and dad to two boys. I play golf and hockey, which basically means hitting things with sticks is how I decompress. I'm one of a small number of loyal LA Chargers fans. And I'm green-brown colorblind, which everyone finds funnier than I do.

If you're not sure whether LLA is right for your family, just get on a call. I'd rather have an honest conversation than have you wonder.

What You Can Expect

When you work with Life Launchpad Advisors, a few things are always true.

You will know what to do next

We don't leave families with vague advice. Every conversation ends with something specific and actionable.

Your student's situation is the starting point

We build around where your teen actually is, not where we wish they were or where some checklist says they should be.

You won't have to figure it out alone

Whether you're a Liftoff Success Roadmap subscriber or working with us one on one, you always have someone who knows your family's situation and can point you in the right direction.

We care whether this works

Our job isn't done when the plan is written. It's done when your student launches.
