

Belong to something greater

⚠ Starting college can feel overwhelming. New campus, no familiar faces, and no group to call your own. Nearly 80% of young Catholics disengage from their faith post-high school, often because they haven't found their place in a new community during one of life's most significant transitions.

Don't wait until you get to campus to find your people and your faith home. Connect with a future faith community before you even pack your bags!

With Newman Connection, graduating seniors can start college with friends and faith waiting for you. We help you find your Catholic community before you arrive, so you're never alone during this important transition.
