Hi folks,

The end of August always carries a sense of change. The long days of summer begin to shorten, mornings grow a little cooler, and signs of harvest appear in fields and gardens. It is a natural reminder that life itself moves in seasons—each with its blessings, each with its challenges.

This change of season invites us to think about the way God works in our lives. Just as He cares for the seed in spring, the fruit in summer, and the harvest in autumn, He is present in every stage of our journey. At times we may feel the energy of new beginnings; at other times we may experience the patience of waiting or the labor of perseverance. And sooner or later, all of us are called to the “harvest” of our lives, when we offer back to God what we have done with the time and talents He has given us.

Scripture reminds us: “Those who sow in tears shall reap with shouts of joy” (Psalm 126:5). Even the hard work, the struggles, and the moments of trial are not wasted in God’s plan. In His time, they become fruitful.

As this new season begins, I encourage you to pause and notice God’s presence in the ordinary patterns of each day. A quiet moment of prayer, gratitude for a meal, or kindness to another person—these small things are seeds of holiness, planted in the soil of our lives.

May the Lord bless the days ahead and grant us the grace to walk with Him through every season.

In Christ,
Fr. Augustine, O.P.
