Life. Love. Legacy.™

July always seems to arrive with a sense of celebration—flags waving, fireworks lighting up the night, and families gathering in backyards to mark the heart of summer and the promise of freedom. In our community, I'm reminded that these moments of togetherness, both big and small, are what give each holiday meaning.

Just the other day, I sat with a resident as she reminisced about her childhood Fourth of July gatherings. She spoke about simpler times: sparklers handed out to grandkids, neighbors stopping by with homemade lemonade, and the stories that would flow as the sun dipped low. Her memories weren't of grand gestures, but of the quiet bonds formed sitting shoulder-to-shoulder, listening to one another and sharing laughter. It struck me how the true spirit of Independence Day isn't measured by the size of the celebration, but by the warmth of the connections we build.

After listening to her stories, I found myself thinking about the way even small moments can shape history. In fact, while Thomas Jefferson was penning the Declaration of Independence in the summer of 1776, he often found inspiration from an unexpected companion—a pet mockingbird who sang by his window. Jefferson believed those gentle songs helped him find clarity in the midst of great responsibility. It's a detail lost to most history books, but it makes me wonder how often the quietest presences in our lives—a friend's encouragement, a family tradition, a simple act of kindness—become the true guiding lights.

This July, as we enjoy our own traditions, let's cherish both the celebrations and the stillness. Scripture reminds us, "It is for freedom that Christ has set us free" (Galatians 5:1), and I see that freedom expressed in the way our team members and residents lift each other up, day in and day out.

We have a wonderful lineup of events all month long, from patriotic singalongs to cool treats on hot afternoons and fellowship gatherings. Whether you're able to join us for a special occasion or just for a warm hello, your presence is always a blessing.

Thank you for allowing us to serve you and your loved ones. We wish you a joyful, peaceful July—may your days be filled with both celebration and the simple joys that linger long after the fireworks fade.

Sincerely,

Logan Manning
Executive Director

Reflections on Freedom

It was in the summer of 1986 that I stood on the banks of New York Harbor, looking over the water toward one of the most iconic symbols of American history: the Statue of Liberty. Lady Liberty was being prepped for her 100-year anniversary celebration. I didn't get to travel over to the island that day because of the work being done, but I had visited the Statue of Liberty several times before and had climbed the steps to her crown and torch. On that day, as an adult, I simply stood reflecting on her significance to the United States of America. In one word, her imposing stance shouted—freedom.

I doubt that our founding fathers ever envisioned the America we live in today. I don't know when it happened or even how it happened, but it seems that this 250th anniversary of our nation has not brought unity, but division. Politicians who are hostile to what we used to call the American way of life are being elected to office all across America. I am not ignorant of the dark spots on our history. The Civil War and the idea of slavery was and is abhorrent, and should be condemned vigorously by all.

In the opening line of the Declaration of Independence, signed by those 56 delegates on July 4, 1776, is a reference to the "Laws of Nature and Nature's God." While America is still a wonderful place to live, most of us have witnessed a decline in moral integrity and conviction—and, dare I say, patriotism—that set America on the journey to greatness.

As we pause this month to celebrate America's 250th anniversary, I will still sing our national anthem and continue to pledge allegiance to the flag. I still believe in the principles on which this nation was established. As a nation, America is barely in the adolescent stage of growth. Let's acknowledge our mistakes, but let us also celebrate our successes. And as we do this, let us also remember that one day, very soon, all the national barriers will come down as the redeemed and forgiven stand before the God of all nations and declare that in Christ Jesus we are united and one! That truth outweighs all others.

So, this month, let's celebrate freedom and remember who provided it—both for our nation, and for our soul and spirit.

250 YEARS OF CELEBRATING WHAT BRINGS US TOGETHER.

Mary Ann Grossbier & THE ART OF LIVING FULLY

Mary Ann Grossbier's story begins on a winter's day—December 31, 1930—when she entered the world in the close-knit farming town of Shelby, Nebraska. Born to Gus and Bessie Korger, and nestled right in the middle of two brothers and three sisters, Mary Ann learned early how to carve out her own space in a house that was always humming with life. Being the middle child suited her—she became a quiet observer, a natural peacemaker, and someone who found delight in life's small surprises.

One of her favorite memories from those early years is a little out of the ordinary: as a girl, she cared for a pet squirrel, a creature she loved and tended with gentle hands. It's a memory that stands out, a reminder of the creativity and affection that have always been at the heart of who she is.

Her father worked long hours tending dairy cows, and the lessons he passed down were simple but lasting. "Behave yourself," he'd say—a phrase Mary Ann still smiles about today, because she knows just how much ground those two words covered. That advice became a kind of compass, guiding her choices with quiet steadiness as she grew.

Love was never far from home for Mary Ann. Her future husband, Alex Grossbier, lived just down the road. What started as a neighborly friendship grew into a partnership built on trust and laughter—one that carried them through decades of highs and lows, and gave them four children to cherish. Today, Mary Ann's family has grown to include five grandchildren, each one a source of pride and joy.

Mary Ann devoted 25 years to teaching cosmetology, earning a reputation as an expert in her field. Her dedication left a mark on everyone who walked through her classroom door. She taught with patience and had a knack for making even the trickiest techniques feel approachable. Many of her students went on to find success as professionals, carrying her lessons with them. What they remember most is the way Mary Ann encouraged their creativity, believed in their potential, and built a legacy that lives on in the many she trained over the years.

When she wasn't teaching, Mary Ann found peace in the gentle rhythm of candle making—a hands-on hobby that asks for patience and rewards with warmth and light. It's an extension of her spirit: warm, steady and always quietly brightening up her corner of the world.

When asked what she would tell her younger self, Mary Ann answers with the kind of wisdom that only comes from a life well lived: "Live life to the fullest." It's advice she has truly embodied—through her devotion to family, her dedication at work, her creativity, and her gentle spirit. You can see it in the way she cares for others, the pride she takes in her craft, and the quiet joy she brings to every day.

Mary Ann's life is a testament to the beauty of simplicity, the strength of kindness, and the joy that comes from sharing yourself with others. We're honored to celebrate Mary Ann Grossbier—a woman whose gentle strength continues to inspire everyone fortunate enough to know her.

WISHFUL THINKING

Grandpa was telling his young grandson what life was like when he was a little boy.

"In the winter we'd ice skate on our pond. In the summer, we could swim in the pond and pick berries in the woods. We'd swing on an old tire my dad hung from a tree on a rope. And we had a pony we rode all over the farm."

The little boy sat quietly, wide-eyed, taking it all in. After a moment, he finally said,

"Grandpa, I wish I'd gotten to know you a lot sooner!"

A NEW CHAPTER AT LEGACY VILLAGE
Welcome Life Enrichment Director Hannah Benton

We are excited to introduce Hannah Benton as the new Life Enrichment Director at Legacy Village of Cleveland. Hannah was chosen for this role because of her impressive five years of experience in senior living, during which she has worn many hats—from dining services and activities, to advising families, to training new team members. This breadth of experience has given Hannah a genuine understanding of the joys and challenges that come with serving older adults, and a deep passion for enriching their lives.

Hannah is a graduate of Lee University, and she's eager to bring her energy and creativity to the Legacy Village community. She shares our mission of fostering meaningful connections, memorable experiences, and plenty of fun for every resident. Her approach is grounded in the belief that every day holds new opportunities for joy, purpose, and community.

Outside of work, Hannah finds relaxation in reading, yoga, and long walks in nature. She and her husband, Parker, love exploring new restaurants together and spending time with family. Hannah looks forward to getting to know each resident personally and working alongside our team to make every day a little brighter.

Please join us in welcoming Hannah to Legacy Village of Cleveland. We're thrilled to have her with us and can't wait to see the positive impact she will make!

ANSWERING REPETITIVE QUESTIONS

As dementia progresses, it gradually affects how the brain processes and stores information. As areas responsible for memory and reasoning become damaged, it becomes difficult for the person to remember recent conversations or retain new information. Because short-term memory is often affected first, a person may not remember that a question was already asked or answered. Repeating the same question is therefore not intentional—it is a common symptom of the disease. Understanding this can help families and caregivers respond with patience and compassion.

When repetitive questions occur, it is best to remain calm and respond in a simple, reassuring way each time, as though it is the first time the question has been asked. Rather than correcting the person, caregivers can focus on offering reassurance and validating any feelings behind the question. Repetition is often linked to anxiety, confusion, or a need for comfort, and sometimes it may signal an unmet need such as hunger, discomfort, or boredom. By responding calmly and addressing both the question and the underlying need, caregivers can help the person feel more secure and supported.

Repetitive questions are a common part of dementia and reflect changes in memory and understanding, not intentional behavior. Responding with patience, reassurance, and compassion can help reduce anxiety and maintain a sense of security for the person living with dementia. By focusing on their feelings and needs, caregivers can create more positive and supportive interactions.

TIPS FOR HANDLING REPETITIVE QUESTIONS

- Create predictable routines. Consistent daily schedules help reduce confusion and anxiety.
- Pay attention to tone and body language. A calm voice and friendly facial expression can be more reassuring than words alone.
- Take breaks when needed. Repetitive questions can be tiring for caregivers, so it is important to step away and recharge when possible.
- Give short, consistent answers. Using the same simple wording each time can be less confusing and easier for the person to process.
- Reduce environmental stress. Too much noise, clutter, or activity can increase confusion and lead to more repetitive questioning.
- Watch for patterns. Repetitive questions may happen more often at certain times of day, when the person is tired, hungry, or overstimulated.
- Provide reassurance through presence. Sitting nearby, holding a hand, or maintaining eye contact can sometimes meet the emotional need behind the question.

Sarah Alexander FAITH, FAMILY & FIGURES

Sarah Alexander's story begins in the quiet coastal town of Carrabelle, Florida, where she was born to Edward and Frankie Winchester. Childhood was a lively affair, spent alongside her brother Franklin—Buddy, as everyone called him—and their black and white collie, Snooper. Sarah remembers the simple joys of running and playing with Buddy, the two of them inseparable as they explored the world around them.

The Winchesters moved several times while Sarah was growing up, first to New Orleans, where she attended Caddo School, then later to Brownsville, Texas. In Brownsville, Sarah finished her years at both the elementary and high school, making a mark as an active member of the choir and earning her Letter for her sweater—a point of pride she never forgot. She was the neighborhood babysitter, trusted by families up and down the street, and she learned to sew during high school, a skill she'd carry with her into adulthood.

After graduation, Sarah attended R&M Business School for two years, taking courses in banking and bookkeeping. She was a natural with numbers, and soon after finishing business school, she started her first job as a bank teller at Brownsville Savings and Loan. During this time, she was also swept up by romance—she began dating Rex, the preacher's son at Simpson Street Baptist, where Sarah attended church. Their connection grew quickly, and before long, Sarah and Rex married and moved to Lamar, Colorado, where his parents had taken a new church position.

Lamar brought new adventures. Sarah worked as a bookkeeper at the local drug store, and soon she and Rex welcomed two daughters, Debbie (Tom) and Rexie Lynn (Jess). Sarah loved being a stay-at-home mother, relishing the everyday moments of watching her children grow.

After about six years in Colorado, the family moved to Monroe, Louisiana. Sarah returned to the world of banking, joining American Bank—now known as Regions Bank—and began what would become a 34-year career, eventually rising to the position of Vice President. She loved her work, especially anything involving math, and found deep satisfaction in helping others manage their finances.

For more than fifty years, Sarah was a devoted member of North Monroe Baptist Church, teaching Sunday school, singing in the choir, and weaving her faith into daily life. She found community and joy in the Southern Sass line dancing group, a local Pokeno club, and a bowling league. Dancing was a particular passion, and travel was another—Sarah and Rex explored the world together, visiting places like Alaska, Hawaii, the Mediterranean, Rome, Turkey and Venice. Some of her fondest memories were closer to home, though, like trips to Branson and Gatlinburg to see wood carving exhibitions. Rex, a talented wood carver himself, shared his artistry with Sarah, and together they admired the work of others.

Today, Sarah calls Legacy Village home. She fills her days with laughter and companionship, spending time with her five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, and staying active in the community. She's a regular at bingo, never misses church, and is always ready for a friendly conversation while out walking. Sarah's warmth, generosity, and sense of adventure continue to inspire everyone around her, and Legacy Village is grateful she chose to be part of its family.
