Life. Love. Legacy.™

March always feels like a breath of fresh air. The days grow a little longer, the sunshine lingers a bit more, and there's a renewed sense of energy and hope throughout our community. It's a comforting reminder that even when growth isn't visible, important work is still happening beneath the surface, and before long, we'll see the results as spring begins to bloom!

Over the past month, we've been busy caring for and maintaining our community, so it continues to feel like a place you're proud to call home. You may have noticed the fresh new carpet in our assisted living hallways and entryway and fresh mulch outside in preparation for spring; updates like these are important to us because this is your home, and we take great pride in keeping it comfortable, welcoming, and well cared for.

February also brought us some memorable winter weather! When the snow arrived, our team worked hard to make sure everyone remained safe, warm, and well prepared. Several team members even stayed overnight to ensure uninterrupted care and support. And when the snow finally fell, we were able to enjoy one of the most special moments, taking residents outside to experience it. For some, it was their very first-time seeing snow, and the joy, laughter, and wonder made it a moment we won't soon forget. Wow!

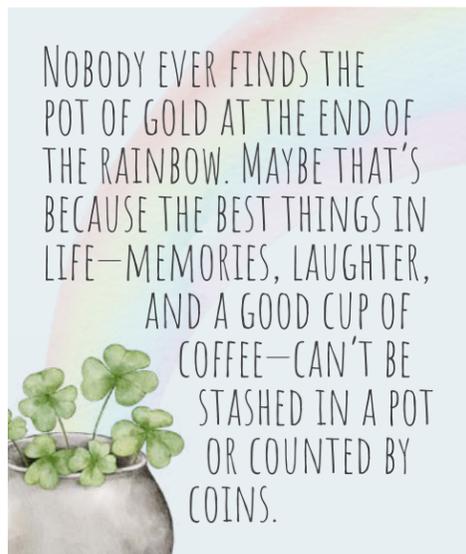

I want to sincerely thank our residents, families, and team members for your patience, flexibility, and positivity through it all. This truly is a community built on kindness, connection, and looking out for one another.

As we step into spring, I encourage you to join in activities, enjoy time with neighbors, and take advantage of the beautiful days ahead. There is so much to look forward to!

As always, please feel free to stop by, say hello, or share your thoughts. Our doors are always open to you.

Warmly,

 Sierra Cannon
 Executive Director

Marching into Spring Safety

March is a month of transition—winter begins to loosen its grip, daylight stretches a little longer, and Spring slowly makes its presence known. It's also a great time for a seasonal safety check-in as we look ahead to warmer days at Legacy Village of Cleveland.

Spring Ahead
 Daylight Saving Time arrives this month, reminding us to “spring ahead” one hour. While the time change can take a day or two to adjust to, the extra daylight in the evenings is a welcome sign that Spring is on the way.

As part of this seasonal transition, our Maintenance Assistant Tom has already replaced smoke detector batteries throughout the community. When you see him, please be sure to thank him for helping keep everyone safe. If residents need assistance resetting clocks after the time change, our staff are always happy to help.

March Is Tornado Awareness Month
 In Southeast Tennessee, March marks the beginning of severe weather season. Tornadoes can develop quickly, which is why awareness and preparation are so important. Residents are encouraged to know the location of their designated safe shelter area, ideally a lowest-level, interior space away from windows. Please continue to pay attention to weather alerts and announcements and always follow staff instructions during severe weather events. These procedures are in place to help keep everyone safe.

Signs of Spring in Southeast Tennessee
 One of the earliest signs of Spring in our area is the blooming redbud tree. Its bright pink-purple blossoms appear before its leaves, often as early as March, bringing welcome color to roadsides and wooded areas throughout Southeast Tennessee.

Fun fact: Redbuds are native to Tennessee, and their flowers are even edible (though we'll admire them from afar!). Native American communities and early settlers viewed the redbud as a symbol of renewal and new beginnings—making it a meaningful and fitting sign that Spring has arrived.

Looking Ahead
 As the seasons change, March offers a chance to enjoy longer days while staying mindful of seasonal safety. Whether it's adjusting to the time change, reviewing severe weather procedures, or simply noticing the first signs of Spring, this month is all about moving forward together.

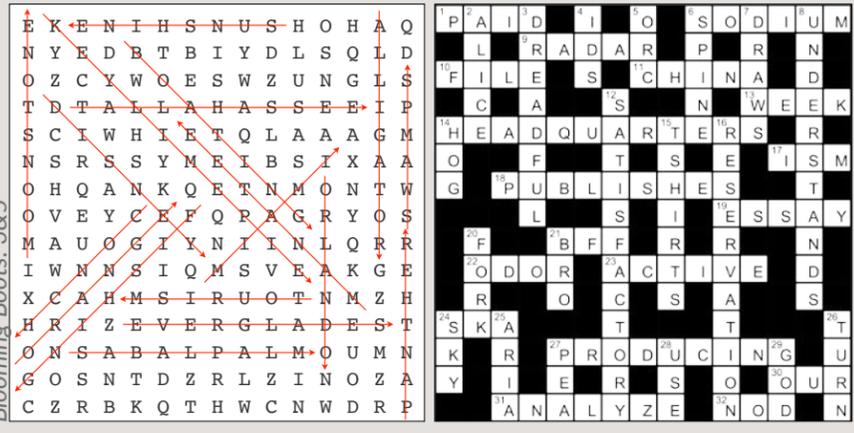

Here's to a safe and sunny start to Spring!

Just Be There

My father didn't do anything unusual. He only did what dads are supposed to do—be there. — Max Lucado

It was the best day I have ever had with my now 48-year-old adult son. The day was February 7th of this year. He is one of the smartest men I know—God-loving and extremely successful in his business life. There were some things that, as a dad, I felt I needed to talk to him about. I was a little anxious about this approaching conversation. After all, the relationship a father has with his adult children is a lot different than when they were still kids living at home.

On this Saturday morning, the time was right, the coffee was good and hot, and most importantly, I felt the leading of my own Heavenly Father to talk to my son. We spent hours together—having breakfast, running around town, and even shopping. Yes, there are a number of men who like shopping just as much as women. So there, I said it. We talked about important life things: faith, family, marriage, and our mutual relationship with God who loves us.

When the day ended, we both agreed it was the best day ever. Phones were laid aside for conversation, and a connection was made that I will remember for the rest of my life. I love that boy of mine fiercely!

I'm sharing this very personal story with you because my devotional this morning was from the New Testament book of Romans, chapter 8. The words that captured my heart were these: "For those who are led by the Spirit of God are the children of God... And by him we cry, 'Abba, Father.'" The literal translation of that last phrase is "Daddy." I personally never had a dad who would do for me what I did for my son on that cold Saturday morning in February. However, I do have an Abba Father who meets me for coffee every morning of my life, and we talk about important life stuff. God does what dads are supposed to do—just be there.

Look up today. I bet you'll see the family resemblance in his eyes and hear him say, "Let's talk."

SWEET MOMENTS BY HOSPICE OF CHATTANOOGA

Liz Ball: Carrying Family & Faith Wherever She Goes

If you want to know what matters most to Elizabeth “Liz” Ball, just ask her about family dinners after Sunday church. Born in Harlan, Kentucky, to Walter and Mattie Jeffery, Liz grew up in the little town of Crummies, where her father worked long days as a coal miner and her mother kept the household running. Liz remembers a house full of laughter, her brother Walter Jr. and sister Betty Sue by her side, and the special Saturdays when her grandmother and aunt arrived for the weekend. They’d pile into the car to go grocery shopping, all looking forward to the big meal they’d share after church—something Liz still calls one of her favorite traditions.

School days were busy and bright: Crummies Elementary, Grays Knob High, afternoons filled with 4H Club projects and Girl Scout meetings. But it was a drive-in diner where Liz’s next chapter began—she met Leonard Campbell Ball there, and from that first meeting, something just clicked. Liz and Leonard both ended up in Richmond for college: Leonard poured himself into accounting, earning his CPA degree, while Liz studied Home Economics at Eastern State College. They married in 1959, and over the years welcomed two children, Priscilla and Byron. Family kept growing, too—now there are four grandchildren (Carrie, Amanda, Kyla, and Sarah) and two great-grandchildren, Decker and Katherine, all part of Liz’s proudest legacy.

After college, Liz devoted herself to raising her children and making a home where everyone felt welcome. The Ball family eventually moved to Kingsport, Tennessee, for Leonard’s CPA work. Liz threw herself into every part of her kids’ lives: cheering Byron on at tennis matches, applauding Priscilla at dance recitals, always present and always encouraging.

Church has always been at the heart of Liz’s world. The Balls were fixtures at First Baptist Church in Kingsport, where Liz taught Sunday School to a room full of energetic third-graders and Leonard served as a deacon, helped run the church’s finances, and stayed active in the Baptist Association.

Liz’s calendar was always full—bridge club, church ladies’ groups, concerts with friends, and supper club dinner parties that left everyone smiling. She loved her weekend getaways, especially her yearly trips to Gatlinburg to hear David Jeremiah speak. And when she tells the story of the 19-day church group road trip across the country, she still laughs about how the preacher cut the adventure short so everyone could make it home in time for church.

These days, Liz calls Legacy Village of Cleveland home. She’s a regular at devotions and church services, cherishes her friendships, and brings that same warmth and spirit to everyone she meets. We’re grateful Liz chose Legacy Village, and it’s our joy to honor her.

WAYNE STANDIFER: A LIFELONG JOURNEY OF LEARNING, SERVICE AND ADVENTURE

Wayne Standifer grew up surrounded by family, mountains, and the spirit of adventure. The youngest of eight children, Wayne was born to H.B. and Hattie Standifer in Cumberland, Kentucky, where his father worked long hours as a coal miner for U.S. Steel Mining Company and his mother held the family together at home. Wayne's childhood was filled with the simple joys of the outdoors—he loved hiking the mountain trails near home and was rarely seen without his loyal dog, Lassie.

School came naturally to Wayne. At Cumberland Elementary and Cumberland High, he made his mark as an active student, joining the Boy Scouts, Future Teachers of America, and the Beta Club. He was the kind of kid who always seemed to be doing something, whether it was leading a group or pitching in to help.

After high school, Wayne's curiosity and work ethic pulled him to Louisville, Kentucky, where he spent a year at K.M. White working with wired elevator controls. But the pull of education was strong, and soon he enrolled at Berea College. His family moved to Chattanooga, Tennessee, but Wayne kept roots in both places—working summers at K.M. White and holding a weekly 10-hour work-study job in the college library. After four years, he graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Elementary Education.

Wayne's first teaching job brought him back to Kentucky. At Benham Elementary, he spent four years in the classroom and three more as a librarian, all while earning his Master of Library Science (MLS) degree from the University of Kentucky. Those early years set the tone for a career built on service and lifelong learning.

New opportunities called Wayne to Cleveland, Tennessee, and a position at Lee College's library office. That's where he met Betty Robbins at the circulation desk. Betty had come from Georgia to finish her own degree in Education, and soon, their friendship turned into something more. They married and began a life together built on teaching, learning, and mutual support.

Wayne and Betty moved to Georgia, where Wayne became a Media Specialist in the Whitfield County School System. He continued his own education at the University of Georgia, earning his Education Specialist (Ed.S.) degree, and spent 32 years serving students and teachers before retiring from the Georgia Teachers Retirement System.

Retirement didn't slow Wayne down. He and Betty moved to Chattanooga and returned to Lee University, where Wayne wore many hats: Reference Librarian, Faculty Liaison, College of Education Liaison, and collection development specialist. He devoted another 15 years to the university before retiring for a second time. Together, Wayne and Betty shared 34 years of marriage and over 100 years of teaching experience between them. Wayne himself has dedicated more than 51 years to education and librarianship.

Wayne's commitment to service has always gone beyond the classroom. He's a member of City Church of Chattanooga and attends Westmore Church of God, where he's led youth groups, classes, Vacation Bible School, and served on many church committees. His love of learning is matched by a love of travel—he and Betty explored the Swiss and French Alps, extending the hiking habit Wayne picked up in his Kentucky childhood. He also found joy in music, attending operas and symphony concerts at the Tivoli.

These days, Wayne enjoys reading, listening to music, and being a part of his church community. When asked what he loves most about Legacy Village, he doesn't hesitate: "All the residents and all the staff are wonderful." We're grateful Wayne chose Legacy Village of Cleveland as his home and are honored to celebrate him. ♡
