

ANNUAL REPORT 2021

A MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

2021 was a year of settling into the new normal--a normal that is both formidable and hopeful. It was a year of continuing struggles for so many Baltimore families--a year of trying to rebound after the economic and health struggles of 2020 in the face of increased prices for necessities including gas, food and rent. Here at ShareBaby, these financial struggles and widespread inflation coupled with supply chain challenges, led to continued high levels of demand for diapers and other essentials.

But with the help of our network of supporters, ShareBaby has built our capacity to do more for those that need it most. We are now able to serve well over 2,000 children each month and exceeded our goal of distributing 2M diapers and other high-needs items in 2021. This represents a 200 percent increase in distribution over our pre-COVID efforts. Together, we power an increasingly reliable and efficient program that more fully meets the diaper and essential needs of the families we serve. We are able to partner with more than 70 community agencies and the thousands of families they help us reach. We are proud of this network of organizations who serve a variety of populations throughout every high-need ZIP code in our city. Each month, we provide tens of thousands of items to food pantries, community centers, clinics, home visiting programs, and hospitals.

ShareBaby is honored to do this work that has allowed us to directly impact the lives of so many vulnerable children and looks to 2022 as a time to become even more efficient and effective at combating diaper need and material insecurity across our community. We hope to inspire you to come along with us on our journey to give Baltimore's children the best start in life!

Thank you for sharing the love,

Amina Weiskerger

THE STATE OF DIAPER NEED

Before the onset of COVID-19, one in three families in the U.S. struggled to afford to buy enough diapers for their young children. But while diaper need has long been a condition of living in poverty, it has become even more pervasive over the course of the pandemic and its continued aftermath.

Commodity prices continue to rise as manufacturers grapple with supply chain challenges and worker shortages. Diaper prices jumped nearly 12 percent in the 18 months ending in June of 2021 according to data from consulting firm AlixPartners, with several diaper makers increasing prices since then. Even a modest increase in the price of goods can make household items like diapers unaffordable for low-income families.

According to Bloomberg News, packages of diapers that cost about $25 in 2020 cost up to $40 in 2021 and that baby-care items from rash salves to wipes saw double-digit increases that continue to rise.

In response to these challenges, the demand on diaper banks increased by about 70 percent in 2021, according to the National Diaper Bank Network.

ShareBaby is dedicated to alleviating diaper insecurity in the lives of vulnerable young children.

PARTNER AGENCIES

Valarie Matthews picks up Pull-Ups for the families she serves. Valarie runs Catherine's Family and Youth Services, an agency located between the Greenspring and Edgecomb neighborhoods that provides food, diapers, clothing and other essentials to support hundreds of families living in the community.

Shelia Ebert and Nicole Sturgis-Wood, our partner representatives from Moravia Park Elementary Judy Center, select formula and toiletries at the warehouse. Moravia Judy Center works in East Baltimore neighborhoods to provide a wide variety of resources and services to ensure that children from birth to kindergarten are ready for school.

From in kind donations, technical assistance, education, and support-- we couldn't do our important work without their partnership.

IN-KIND CAMPAIGNS

Throughout the year, we lead campaigns to fill our shelves with our most in-demand items.

Our Sharing is Caring campaign in February brought in 1,254 baby toiletries.

During our 100K By Mother's Day campaign in May, we collected funds to purchase over 80,000 diapers.

In September, our Diaper Need Awareness Week drive raised funds to purchase 56,300 Pull-Ups.

Donors who participated in our Warm Up for Winter campaign in November donated 504 coats.

LEAD VOLUNTEERS

This group of dedicated volunteers commit to serving ShareBaby on a consistent, ongoing basis as Session Leads, Warehouse Leads, and/or Community Leads. They are the heart of the warehouse and our work would not be possible without their support!
