

Sister Carol Zinn, SSJ

Sister Carol, a Sister of St. Joseph of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, PA ministered in the formal and non-formal education profession. She has taught all levels (pre k through post-graduate) and has worked in the areas of educational leadership, religious education, sacramental coordinator and music minister.

Sister Carol worked in grassroots-based international movements as a consultant and facilitator. She has worked with individual congregations in helping them connect their efforts and energies to the global issues and concerns.

Sister Carol served in the LCWR leadership, as president (2012 – 2015) working with leaders and members of religious congregations as they discerned and planned for their mission into the future.

Presently she is the executive director of LCWR.

Today we hear her presentation to sisters and associates on the Associate Vocation. This is one of the many presentations on the Associate Vocation given to religious communities and their associates.
