

Kelly Engineering

We produce quality candidate shortlists.
So you can produce what the country needs.

Kelly are a global workforce solutions provider. Over the last seven decades, we've helped talented people of all levels find positions most suited to their skills, attributes and personality.

Our candidates are at the forefront of what's next in the world of Engineering. They support brands that drive the UK and global economy, leading innovation in some of the most important areas of human progress today – from driverless cars to the creation of robotic prosthetic limbs.

Our capabilities within the Engineering space means we've been able to support our clients with their recruitment challenges for over two decades. So, if you've got a recruitment struggle we can help.

What our partners say...

Kelly has been able to source excellent candidates in various roles for BayWa r.e which has enabled us to grow our company in a very short period of time.

Every one of the new employees has been able to hit the ground running which is a massive time saving within the company and has allowed me to focus on our customer requirements and deliver a far superior service. Your selection of candidates to the job description supplied for the role has vastly reduced the time in the interview process.
