Nexxt Medtech overview

Nexxt Medtech has developed

Intelligent Quantum Biophysics Energy.

This technology allows us to restore the body's electrical energy to peak. Achieving peak electrical energy causes the elimination of inflammation and promotes healing thus we are the ONLY pain therapy not blocking the pain signal or altering the brains perception of pain!

The US and EU combined have 183 million people that suffer chronic pain.

We will target elderly and persons in physical therapy initially. We will win the as the only natural solution that works from the first treatment and the patient can treat themselves at home. The funds invested will be used to convert existing clinical unit into a phone app that controls the current generator that hangs from the waist.

We currently have the clinical device which has proven in a clinical trial its efficacy.

We have design/engineering, manufacturing and FDA consultants in place with a plan on how to move forward to have a FDA certified device in 12 months or less. Manufacturers are identified and can begin production on demand.

We are raising $4,000,000:

- $1,800,000 for the engineering, FDA certification and prototype build.
- Balance of funds are for go to market. We have physical therapy clinics on standby and a plan to build a direct sales force for retirement villages and independent living homes.
