Intellectual property summary

Over 40 years ago, it all began with the desire to go beyond the visible and understand the essence of the human body in its atomic and subatomic form.

This was initially achieved through university studies and scientific research with leading experts in the world of electromedicine and quantum physics.

This led to the design of an electronic model of the biological system that could be used as a communication interface and optimization of the system.

The beating heart of the technology, therefore, lies in the complex algorithm designed that encompasses what we call Universe diamond frequencies. A real-time communication and impulse transfer system that recharge the membrane cells and leading the system towards a state of general health.

More 25 years of investigation and clinical testing, by applying quantum assumptions, we have generated an interference system that, thanks to electron flows managed by a sophisticated algorithm, progressively repolarizes the cell membrane, reactivating all physiological processes and increasing ATP production.

We have the total Intellectual Property, the native source is completely protected from seven security level and the actual clinic unit software too.

Immediately upon funding we will apply under the auspices of Alice's rule to patent all the algorithms mentioned above.
