Message From Your Executive Director: September 2025

It's September, and that means one of my favorite traditions is here: National Assisted Living Week! If you haven't heard the story, this week-long celebration was created nearly 30 years ago to honor the deep connections between residents, teams and families in communities just like ours. Each year brings a new theme—this year, it's "Ageless Adventure"—reminding us there's no expiration date on joy, curiosity, or a good laugh.

Here's a nugget of assisted living history you might not know: the very first modern assisted living facility in the country was Park Place in Portland, Oregon, opened by Dr. Karen Wilson in 1981. It was a game-changer—combining private rooms, around the clock care, community spaces, and real independence for residents. Oregon issued the first official assisted living license in 1988, so this whole movement isn't as old as you might think. But the heart of assisted living—respect, dignity, a sense of home—goes back much further.

That's always been our focus, too. When Barry Ray and Bryan Cook founded Legacy Senior Living, they did it as a ministry, believing that every senior deserves to be treated like family, and served with honor, respect, faith and integrity.

We've got a full slate of fun planned for National Assisted Living Week, and you're invited to join us—not just for the week of festivities, but any day you want to stop by. Our doors are always open to family, friends, and anyone who wants to share in the adventure.

As we head into another month, thank you for the trust you place in us. It's a privilege to care for our residents and to share in the stories, smiles, and moments that make this community truly feel like home.

Here's to another month of living fully, loving deeply, and maybe learning something new along the way.

Sincerely,

Peter S. Rost

SPOTLIGHT
Sunshine, Adventure, and Family: Meet Shirley Ann Geiger

If you ask Shirley Ann Geiger about her life, she'll tell you it's been equal parts sunshine, adventure, and deep Florida roots. Born and raised in Miami, Shirley's childhood unfolded beneath palm trees and open skies—a world of horses, citrus groves, and the wild possibilities of the land.

She was a student at Citrus Grove Elementary and Gesu Catholic High School, but her education extended far beyond the classroom. Weekends and summers were spent on her family's farm in South Miami and their ranch in Yeehaw Junction, where rural Florida left its mark on her heart. Shirley's spirit for adventure took shape early on, especially when she joined local ranchers in a game called Palmetto Polo—an inventive twist on polo, played with ranch horses and sabal palm stalks for mallets. She competed against teams from other towns, a natural fit for someone who'd already learned the sport back in Miami.

Her senior year brought a change of scenery as she lived at the Yeehaw Junction ranch and attended Vero Beach High School. After graduation, she headed to the University of Florida to study Animal Science—a choice that felt as natural as the land she loved. There, Shirley met Sterling Wood, and together they raised three daughters—Sharon, Sue, and Stacey—anchored by family ties to both Orlando and the family ranch. The beach was an ever-present backdrop, too; her in-laws owned one of just two houses along a pristine, three-mile stretch of Indian River Shores, back when A1A was still just a sandy road.

Shirley's journey led her back to the ranch, where she married TJ Durrance, a fellow rancher and one of the visionaries behind the Indian Hammock Hunt and Riding Club. In 1980, Shirley charted a new path as the founder of Durrance Realty in Vero Beach, specializing in ranches, large land tracts, and citrus groves—a business grounded in her lifelong connection to Florida's landscape.

After TJ's passing, Shirley found love again with Robert Hunt and moved to Ocala, where she spent 26 years surrounded by rolling pastures and new friendships. When Robert passed away earlier this year, Shirley felt the pull of home and returned to Vero Beach, settling at the Renaissance to be close to her daughters. Today, Sue and Stacey live at Indian Hammock, while Sharon remains in Orlando, where her children and grandchildren still call Shirley "Mimi" with affection.

Through every chapter—Miami childhood, ranch adventures, university days, real estate ventures, and family milestones—Shirley's story is woven with gratitude and a true sense of place. She is, at heart, a woman rooted in Florida's land and its people, always ready for the next sunrise and the next adventure, surrounded by the love of family and friends.

MORE THAN DECORATION: HOW SHADOWBOXES CAN GUIDE, CONNECT, & SOOTHE

If you've visited our community, you may have noticed the unique shadow boxes displayed beside each resident's apartment door. These small displays are more than just decoration—they're a heartfelt way to help our residents feel at home, spark fond memories, and make their space truly their own.

Shadow boxes are filled with personal treasures: family photos, favorite keepsakes, little mementos from past travels, or objects that hold special meaning. For residents living with memory loss, seeing these familiar items each day can be comforting and grounding. A well-chosen shadow box serves as both a gentle reminder of their life story and a cheerful welcome every time they return to their door.

These boxes also play an important practical role. Instead of relying on numbers or names, residents can look for something uniquely theirs—like a childhood photo, a beloved trinket, or a favorite color. This helps many residents find their way more confidently and feel a deeper sense of belonging.

Shadow boxes can also offer comfort and reassurance during challenging moments. In these times, pausing together at their shadow box and looking through its contents can gently redirect their attention. Talking about the familiar items and sharing stories often brings a sense of calm and connection, offering both comfort and a new focus.

If you haven't created a shadow box for your loved one yet, we encourage you to start thinking about what could go inside. It's a wonderful way to share pieces of their story and personality, and it often sparks conversation with staff, neighbors, and visitors. Many families find that working together to select photos or keepsakes becomes a meaningful experience in itself.

If you'd like ideas or assistance, our team is always here to help. Together, we can make sure every resident's story is honored—one cherished memory at a time.

IDEAS FOR YOUR SHADOWBOX:

Secret to a Long

Marriage: A couple was celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Their domestic tranquility had long been the talk of the town. A local newspaper reporter was inquiring as to the secret of their long and happy marriage.

"Well, it dates back to our honeymoon," explained the man. "We visited the Grand Canyon and took a trip down to the bottom of the canyon by pack mule. We hadn't gone too far when my wife's mule stumbled. My wife quietly said, 'That's once.' We proceeded a little further and the mule stumbled again. Once more my wife quietly said, 'That's twice.' Hadn't gone a half mile when the mule stumbled the third time. My wife quietly removed a revolver from her pocket and shot the mule dead. I started to yell at her for her treatment of the mule when she looked at me and quietly said, 'That's once.'"

Fun Fall Facts

Bird Migration Superhighways: Many birds use the autumnal equinox as a trigger to begin—or hit a major milestone in—their long migrations. Some species, like the ruby-throated hummingbird, will cross the Gulf of Mexico in a single nonstop flight right around the equinox.

The "Manhattanhenge" Effect: On the equinox, the sun aligns nearly perfectly with the street grid in some cities (most famously New York). You get a dazzling sunset that runs straight down the avenues—an accidental modern stonehenge.

Leaves don't "turn" because it gets colder: Those gorgeous reds, oranges, and yellows? They're always in the leaves—chlorophyll just masks them during summer. As days shorten, chlorophyll fades, and the hidden colors finally show.

Fall Equinox Folklore

Open your doors to good spirits: Folklore from parts of Europe claims that spirits wander freely on the equinox, so people would open their doors and windows to let good energy in—or sweep the thresholds to drive bad energy out.

Plant garlic for protection: In some rural traditions, planting garlic bulbs on the autumn equinox is believed to keep your household safe from evil over the winter. Plus, you get tasty garlic in the spring—win-win.

"I'm not superstitious,
but I am a little stitious."
