RISE Inc., Announces New Executive Director

Volume 25, Edition 11, November 2023

On October 16th, the RISE Board of Directors announced the hiring of Laura Guevara as the new Executive Director. Laura is the 3rd Executive Director of RISE, Inc. since its inception in 1987.

Laura is a committed professional who has made significant impacts during her tenure at RISE. In four years with our organization, Laura took on numerous pivotal roles, with her most significant contributions in the After School Program. As program coordinator, she managed RISE's largest program, overseeing the educational journeys of more than 150 students and guiding a team of over 15 staff members. Her unwavering dedication to this program allowed her to build deep community connections and foster meaningful partnerships with various stakeholders. When challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic emerged, Laura showcased her leadership strengths by piloting an innovative program tailored to the needs of 60 students and their working families. This program was the only service in Yolo County providing in-person distance-learning support to students while also offering a sense of normalcy during this challenging period. Under Laura's guidance, the program achieved remarkable success, with not a single positive COVID-19 case reported throughout the school year. The following year, Yolo County Office of Education recognized Laura Guevara and the After School program with the, "Excellence in Education" award.

Laura is a proud UC Davis alumna. During her college years, she worked as a Lead Tutor at Pioneer High School in Woodland. Prior to her tenure at RISE, she held the role of Case Management Supervisor at a non-profit organization in San Mateo County. In this capacity, she played a critical role in offering support to youth dealing with severe mental health challenges, closely collaborating with their families to connect them with essential community resources, and providing training and guidance to her team of Case Managers. Undoubtedly, investing in youth and families has been a consistent theme during her 10+ years of professional experience. Laura's immigration journey from Mexico to California, motivated by her family's pursuit of a better life, ignited a sense of resilience and determination within her. Her upbringing as the daughter of farmworkers continues to be a source of inspiration, reinforcing her commitment to assisting rural communities in accessing essential resources.

With Laura's vision and experience, we are excited to continue our mission of making a positive impact on the lives of the individuals and families we serve.

RISE Inc. Seniors Celebrate Park Bench Installation

by Laura Guevara, Exectutive Director of RISE Inc.

Tuesday October 17th, we celebrated an incredible achievement made possible by the commitment and advocacy of our Senior Program Coordinator, Tina Minges, and the seniors who wrote letters to the county.

I am thrilled to announce the installation of four brand-new benches at Tuli Mem Park. Thanks to the dedicated efforts of our Senior Program, our Esparto community seniors now have a comfortable space to exercise, unwind, and take well-deserved breaks. This wonderful addition to the park is a testament to the power of collective action and community spirit.

Special thanks to the Yolo County Board of Supervisors and county staff for making this project a reality. Their support and commitment to our community have truly made a lasting and positive impact for years to come.

This accomplishment is a perfect example of what we can achieve when we work together with passion and dedication. We are proud of our Senior Program's accomplishments and grateful for the county's support.

Corner Beautification Project

submitted by Carolyn Nordstrom

Have you noticed that the corner of Grafton and Omega next to the RISE Preschool could use a little love? This corner is currently a rocky, weedy patch of dirt, but it has the potential to be a beautiful and educational garden designed to attract pollinators: bees, butterflies, and hummingbirds. That is the vision of Esparto Middle School agriculture teacher Erin Simons and Yolo County Master Gardener Carolyn Nordstrom. In October the Esparto Unified School District and the Yolo County Master Gardeners approved a project to begin turning this unused eyesore into a community asset. With the support of the Esparto Community School team, we have been able to unite the school district, Yolo County Master Gardeners, and RISE to improve our neighborhood. Site preparation will begin this fall with some new irrigation and soil conditioning with cover crops. We're hoping for a wet winter to get this started. In the spring, the cover crops will be mowed down and we will begin planting.

Pollination is the process that most plants use to produce fruit and seeds. As bees, butterflies, moths, birds, and other pollinators visit flowers to sip nectar or gather protein, pollen grains are moved around, allowing the plants to reproduce. More than 75% of the world's plants rely on animals for pollination. By gardening for pollinators, we will not only bring beauty to our community, but we will help support a diversity of native bees, butterflies, and birds. The Esparto pollinator garden will follow best practices for creating a pollinator habitat, including using a variety of plant types that will bloom throughout the year; providing plants with a variety of flower structures that offer nectar, pollen, or both; incorporating California native plants that are uniquely adapted to support native bees; and avoiding the use of pesticides.

The Esparto Community Schools program strives to engage the whole community with connections to educational programs and school sites. The UC Master Gardeners program provides research-based information about home horticulture, pest management, and sustainable landscape practices to the public. This project will invite Esparto community members to be involved in the development and maintenance of this garden for all of us.

Eclipse in Esparto

By Clarence Underwood

It was the 14th of October, 2023. The morning sky was cloudy Not much to see. An eclipse was Hidden, it started around 8 AM. The people were frustrated waiting For the clouds to thin. Suddenly, A beam of light was seen, but the Clouds were still in place. One beam Was followed by another, then we Saw the Sun's eclipsed face. Gradually We could see more, but the clouds Were still there. I hope you saw the Spectacular ending, as the moon Left the Sun's face bare. The eclipse had Ended. The sky had began to clear. Perhaps next year things will be Different, maybe the sky will be clear! April 8, is the date when another eclipse Will be here. So, although some of you May have missed the event this year, We can all look forward in hopes of a Better time next year!

Exciting Capay Valley Preservation Project Launched

In the 1930s, the WPA funded the construction of the cabin at Camp Haswell on Cache Creek above Rumsey. Local residents built the cabin by hand using creek stone and mortar. The cabin eventually became known as the "Boy Scout Cabin". It was and still is a popular stop for recreation on the Cache Creek and has withstood flood and severe wind for 9 decades. Taking the beautiful drive up CA-16 on the way to Rumsey Canyon, visitors can stop by the Boy Scout Cabin to explore and enjoy this perfectly placed picnic spot on Cache Creek. Any visitors during high waters will marvel at how perfectly designed this tiny cabin is for surviving the floods and winds over the years without destruction. In recent years, Yolo County Parks and Recreation took over management of the cabin. Most recently, there was talk by the county of tearing the structure down because the roof needed to be replaced. The stone structure itself is stable so it would not require any work to ensure the safety of others or the integrity of the building. One of the boys, Matt Gwerder, who grew up playing in the cabin is now a young adult resident of the valley. Auspiciously, he is also a licensed building contractor and was made aware of the County's intent to demolish the building. He has taken it upon himself to spearhead the preservation of the Cabin as one of the few remaining examples of WPA work in the Valley and a favorite place for locals and visitors alike. Matt is a young, busy contractor, father and husband with a passion for preserving history. He has worked tirelessly with the County and received approval to push the project to completion. Matt is donating his time & amp; expertise to repair the roof and secure the building for future generations as well as inspired other community members to lend a hand.

With the support of the Yolo County Historical Society, fund raising has begun to cover the cost of materials ($30,000). If you are interested in donating to this worthy project, please send a check made out to the Yolo County Historical Society, PO Box 1447, Woodland, CA 95776, with "Camp Haswell" on the memo line. Alternatively, follow the link or QR code to the YCHS page where you may donate online. https://bit.ly/camphaswell As always, donations may be tax deductible. Please check with your tax preparer. Esparto: A New Season is Born--Chapter 1

It started with a town hall workshop filled with Esparto and Valley residents. Each of us had brought our high hopes for our communities' future. Capay Valley Vision, with the support of their Board members, Dave Scheuring and Paula Lorenzo Tackett, brought professionals to town to help us map out a future for the Valley. (We all considered the Valley from Madison through Rumsey, right?). White butcher -block paper covered the walls of the Boy Scout cabin where we met. Each comment and thought from the audience about our future was written down on big paper to form a big picture--a drawing of our hopes and dreams.

This planning workshop and the series that followed in 2005, led to the creation of Task Forces, one of which was the Economic Development Task Force. Esparto had two operating commercial businesses at the time. One was the Burger Barn and the other was what we called "Paul's 76 station". We had public facilities like the new Esparto library, Esparto High School, Esparto Fire Department and the Community Service District standing with the other buildings in the commercial zone empty and neglected, and many with absentee owners.

The Economic Development Task Force continued meeting throughout the next year and began to hone a philosophy for growing economic vitality in Esparto. And since there was no other organization whose mission was fully about economic growth, we decided to become an official non-profit organization. New Season Community Development Corporation was born and incorporated in 2006.

Mission Statement: New Season Community Development Corporation is dedicated to restoring the vitality of Yolo County's rural communities. Through a realistic use of resources and assets, New Season Community Development Corporation will: Serve as a catalyst for community prosperity

Provide a balanced approach to development that transforms ideas into action Create economic revitalizations throughout rural Yolo County

Foster a community's special character

Provide opportunities for new family wage jobs, housing and small business development

A Board of Directors was formed of these Valley residents, many of whom still serve today-- 17 years later! Coming next, Chapter 2-The Lindbergh Building Success

Dear Esparto Unified School District Community,

Thank you for your invaluable contributions and active participation in the process of defining the graduate profile competencies. Your insights and dedication have played a critical role in shaping the foundation of our strategic planning process for the betterment of our educational community. Together, we embarked on a journey to articulate the essential competencies that will define our graduates, paving the way for their success in an ever-evolving and complex world. Your thoughtful input, diverse perspectives, and collaborative efforts have significantly enriched this crucial initiative. Through community forums, stakeholder interviews, surveys, and open dialogues, we have gathered a wealth of collective wisdom. The thoughtful discussions and constructive feedback have enabled us to pinpoint the key competencies that we want our graduates to possess as they step into the world beyond our educational institution.

Your Graduate Profile recommendations emphasize the following competencies: Career: encompass technical expertise, soft skills, problem-solving abilities, adaptability, communication skills, leadership, critical thinking, and other qualities necessary to excel in a particular field and contribute to organizational goals and objectives. Communication: skills such as active listening, empathy, clarity in expression, cultural awareness, non-verbal communication, persuasion, and conflict resolution. Well-being: refers to an individual's ability to effectively navigate and manage various aspects of their well-being, encompassing physical, mental, emotional, and social dimensions. It involves having the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors necessary to promote and maintain a state of overall wellness and contentment in one's life. Critical Thinking and roblem-Solving: refers to the ability to analyze, evaluate, and synthesize information in order to make informed decisions, solve complex problems, and formulate effective solutions. Financial Literacy: encompasses a range of abilities, including understanding financial concepts, managing personal finances, budgeting, saving, investing, understanding credit and debt, evaluating financial products and services, and planning for the future. Collaboration, Teamwork, and Citizenship: emphasizes the importance of collaboration and teamwork, instilling a sense of civic responsibility and active participation within our community. Our students will become engaged citizens who contribute positively to society, valuing diversity and promoting unity. These competencies will be woven into our curriculum and extracurricular activities, allowing students to develop and refine these skills throughout their educational journey. Our dedicated educators are committed to fostering an environment that supports the growth of these competencies, enabling our students to excel academically and personally. As we craft our strategic plan, these elements - the Graduate Profile and selected competencies - will be at the heart of our deliberations. We seek to align our strategic goals, initiatives, and investments with these educational outcomes. This ensures that our educational programs and support services align with the needs of our students and the expectations of our community. The graduate profile serves as a foundational document that outlines the essential skills, knowledge, and attributes we aim to cultivate in our students by the time they complete their education with us. It is a reflection of our educational mission and sets the standard for what we strive to achieve in preparing our students for success in their future endeavors. The next step involves evaluating the current state of our institution in relation to the graduate profile. We will conduct a comprehensive assessment to identify strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats that affect our ability to effectively meet the objectives outlined in the graduate profile. This analysis will help us gain a clear understanding of where we stand and what areas require improvement. Following this evaluation, we will engage stakeholders from various backgrounds, including educators, administrators, parents, students, and community members. Their valuable insights and perspectives helped us gain a well-rounded view of our institution's strengths and weaknesses, aligning with the goals set in the graduate profile. Next, we will define our strategic objectives, outlining specific initiatives and actions to bridge the gaps identified during the evaluation phase.

These initiatives will encompass curriculum enhancements, professional development for educators, community engagement programs, and investments in educational technology.

In summary, our strategic planning process, utilizing the graduate profile results, is a dynamic and ongoing effort. It will allow us to tailor our educational strategies to align with the overarching goals of producing well-rounded, capable graduates who are prepared to face the challenges of the future.

Thank you for your attention, and I look forward to working collaboratively with all stakeholders to achieve our shared vision for educational excellence.

Thank you for your continued support and partnership.

6th Grade Sports Teams Mrs. Aman Kullar, Principal

Greetings! It's an exciting time at our school as we proudly introduce our first-ever 6th grade sports teams! This groundbreaking initiative marks a significant milestone in our commitment to fostering not only academic excellence but also the overall development of our students. With the addition of these new sports teams, we aim to provide our young athletes with a unique opportunity to explore their athletic talents, build teamwork and sportsmanship skills, and create lasting memories during their middle school journey.

Historically, we have only had 7th and 8th grade sports teams for our YCAL middle school league. Our 6th grade students were only allowed to join the 7th grade teams if we did not have enough 7th grade players to make a team. Unfortunately, 6th graders could not play once the team reached the cap. Seeing the disappointment on our 6th grade students' faces, Mrs. Janice Cristian, our athletic director, knew something must be done! She took the initiative to collaborate with schools in Dixon and Winters in order to find a way to allow our 6th graders the opportunity to participate. Her hard work has paid off, as this is the first school year where our 6th graders have their very own teams. Now, we can proudly say that EMS provides all of our students with the opportunity to take part in athletics. As we embark on this new adventure, we look forward to seeing our 6th-grade athletes grow and excel both on and off the field, setting the stage for a bright future in sports and academics.

Full Belly Farm

By Liz Steiner

Discovering the Organic Beauty that is our neighbor business in the Capay Valley, Full Belly Farm. This 400 acre farm located right here in the Capay Valley is a certified organic beacon of sustainable agriculture and natural beauty, attracting both locals and visitors seeking a glimpse into the world of eco-friendly farming annually at the Hoes Down Festival in October. This year the festival was on October 7 and they hoped to attract more than 2000 visitors. The visitors they attract also visit other local businesses thus furthering Full Belly Farms impact on the local economy.

Full Belly Farm epitomizes the essence of organic farming, embodying a commitment to cultivating the land responsibly and sustainably. Since its inception and then certification in 1985, the farm is a testament to the dedication of its founders, who strive to produce high-quality, organic produce while minimizing their ecological footprint. Together with their 80 employees they produce an array of vegetables, herbs, nuts, flowers and fruits year round. The farm also has a variety of farm animals. All of these wonderful organic sustainable items are available locally in grocery stores and on many restaurant menus throughout Northern California and beyond. Additionally all of us have the opportunity to enjoy their products in a Community Supported Agriculture box or CSA box. CSA is a subscription based model where you buy directly from the farmer. These weekly CSA boxes are filled with a variety of fruits, vegetables and other products and can be ordered on their website https://fullbellyfarm.com/join-our-csa.

Full Belly farm also offers many opportunities to get closer to nature by visiting their farm at an event. They offer workshops and classes monthly along with a pizza night. Padilla, Garamendi and Thompson Urge Biden Administration to Expand Berryessa Snow Mountain National Monument

BROOKS, Calif. (October 19, 2023) — Following the September 24, 2023 site visit by U.S. Secretary of the Interior Deb Haaland, Tribal and community leaders, and Members of Congress to the area known as Molok Luyuk ("Condor Ridge" in the Patwin language), Senator Alex Padilla, Congressman John Garamendi, and Congressman Mike Thompson have sent a letter to reiterate their calls for President Joseph Biden to use his authority under the Antiquities Act of 1906 to expand the Berryessa Snow Mountain National Monument to include the entirety of the ridge. Lawmakers also urged Secretary Haaland to order the U.S. Board on Geographic Names to rename "Walker Ridge" to "Molok Luyuk." Berryessa Snow Mountain National Monument was created in 2015, leaving most of Molok Luyuk out of the designation. Since then, the Expand Berryessa coalition--a group of tribes, environmental and conservation organizations—has been pushing to protect the entirety of Molok Luyuk by expanding the monument to include the remaining 13,753 acres of the ridge. "We were honored to have our Nation's leaders visit us on our ancestral lands," said Tribal Chairman Anthony Roberts. "Molok Luyuk is traditionally important to the lifeways of the Patwin people, and we consider the protection and stewardship of this land to be part of our sacred responsibility. The expansion of the monument would provide a greater level of protection and additional federal resources for cooperative land management." The Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation thanks its Congressional representatives and Secretary Haaland for their ongoing support efforts to help tribes steward and protect traditional lands.

Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation is an independent, self-governed nation that supports our people and the Capay Valley, CA community by strengthening our culture, stewarding our land and creating economic independence for future generations.

We have very conflicted feelings about bears: we encourage children to cuddle up with teddy bears, yet we instinctively fear them and want them nowhere near our houses, families, and livestock. It may be a good idea to try to better understand our local bear, now named "Dakota" after she (probably a mother, with one or two cubs) visited many farms in upper Capay Valley in September of this year and ravaged through a fair amount of chicken, ducks, geese and hogs. She is a black bear, which a bit confusing as she is more probably brown, rather than black. She is not a grizzly bear, the bear that is the focus of much terror around bears! Grizzly bears can stand on their feet (up to 10 or more feet tall), run very fast, and rip the arms off, or kill, people, especially when defending cubs. But black bears are not the same. About 70 percent of human deaths from grizzly bears are from others defending cubs, but black bear mothers have not been known to kill anyone in defense of cubs. Most fatal encounters between black bears and people involve dogs: when dogs try to attack bears, and the owners try to defend their dogs, it generally doesn't end well for anyone involved. Why did Dakota come to make farm visits this September? Black bears are really mountain bears; their traditional territory in California is the Sierra Nevada Range, and rugged parts of the Coast Range. (Grizzly bears, on the other hand, did roam over the territory where we now live, the inland and coastal grasslands and valleys, before they were exterminated- and then made the symbol of California on our flag). Black bears like to live among forests and trees and can easily climb trees. Their preferred foods, surprisingly for such a big animal, are nuts, acorns, fruit, insects, and succulent greens. Meat and less succulent greens are eaten when preferred foods are scarce. Someone mentioned that Dakota may have come down into the farms of Capay Valley because the fires we have had in the Blue Mountains to the west of the Valley have vastly reduced their regular fall harvests of acorns and berries, like manzanita. The acorns and the berries will come back as the hillsides recover, and we can hope Dakota and her kin will stay there in the future. What we don't want is for her to develop a habit of harvesting our livestock, or other food like the bears in Tahoe. Scaring her off by shooting over her head may have helped discourage her, and as many people noted, having bear-hardened coops, motion alarms and electric fencing around livestock is very wise. For an easy to build chicken coop: https://www.thegardencoop.com/product/garden-coop-walk-in-chicken-coop-plans/)There are last-resort steps for people who experience serious damage from a problem bear, but the first step will be to make our Valley not interesting (and scary) for a bear. But we might also take pride and leasure in knowing that we live next to an intact and healthy wild ecosystem, supporting an apex animal like a bear along with all kinds of other creatures, right next to our Valley.

Seasonal Recipes Using ingredients sourced from farms in the Capay Valley

by Pamela Bateman

Walnut Wafers

2 cups White Sonora Wheat Flour* or All Purpose Flour 1/2 teaspoon salt
3 Tablespoons Butter - softened
1/2 cup finely ground Walnuts *
1/4 cup Honey *
1/4 cup water

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

In a bowl combine the flour, salt and butter until thoroughly mixed. Mix in ground walnuts. In a measuring cup combine honey and water. Add honey water to flour mixture and stir until ingredients come together. Additional water, a teaspoon at a time, may be needed to incorporate all the flour. Do not add too much water. The mixture should be moist enough to form into a ball. Divide the dough into two balls. On a floured surface roll each ball out to a little less than 1/4" thickness. Cut dough into desired shapes and place on two cookie sheets. Bake at 400 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until wafers are lightly browned. Makes approximately 24 wafers
