

Haiti - House #258 Appolon

Fedia Appolon, is a courageous, hardworking woman who lives with her husband Akim Pierre and their only child in the makeshift tarp covered hut you see in the “before” picture. As most of the women in the area, she sells little items and extra vegetables that they grow along the road and in the market in Jeremie to help the family and her husband who is a security agent in Jeremie. They are Catholics and attend the church as often they can. Fedia’s family has been committed to supporting the church for several generations. For many years, Fedia has been praying for a house. Her main problem was getting a clear title to the property. By the grace of God, she finally has it, HMI is happy to help her move to a more decent place with her family. They send their heartfelt, prayerful appreciation to all who helped in any way that made this possible.
