

Haiti - House #272 Lenise Valere

Lenise Valere is shown here with her son standing in front of the “before” hut in which they have been living. She is a fighter and hardworking, single mother. One of her brothers lives with her also. As do so many of the Haitian women, she does a little commerce, selling what she can find to get some little help to take care of her son. She comes to church as often as possible. Taking into consideration her living condition and her situation and recognizing her need for urgent help, HMI is delighted to be able build a home where she and her son can be safe and healthier. They send their appreciative prayers for all who have helped to make this possible.
