Walkine Pierre and his wife, Lenette Antoine, live in Numero Deux with their 3 children and a granddaughter. Walkine works very hard making cement blocks. He is a kind, respectful and hardworking man despite the terrible accident he had 20 years ago which continues to make his life very hard. Lenette also does what she can for their large family by selling small food items in a roadside stand. They were in need of a decent place to live and so they are overjoyed with their new home and send their thanks to all who made it possible.
