Thursday, April 18th at 10:00am in the Great Room

A few times during our national history there have been magical connections of a special moment, an extremely important cause or event, and a speaker whose words helped citizens understand the significance of what they were living through. Some speeches were carefully crafted for months while others were hastily written in less than a day. Some speeches embrace grief while others describe a better future - and the very best speech of all does both.

Please join Gary Midkiff as he explains the context of these speeches and – through video clips and his reading – lets you hear and reflect upon these very important words.
