Why Your Legacy Matters

Your legacy can continue to shape the industry in meaningful and lasting ways.

- Invest in education: Fund programs that prepare students and early-career professionals to meet industry demands and carry forward best practices.
- Advance safety: Underwrite research, training programs, and outreach that reduce risk at the plant, on job sites and on the road—saving lives and preventing injuries.
- Build community resilience: Support projects and studies that enhance infrastructure durability and help communities withstand storms, earthquakes, and long-term stresses.
- Sustain innovation: Enable long-term research in materials, mix design, and construction techniques that improve performance, reduce environmental impact, and lower lifecycle costs.

How to Start

We'll keep it Simple and Confidential

Many of our donors begin with a simple conversation.

- Talk with your financial advisor or attorney—use our sample language to make your intent clear.
- Request to connect with the Foundation's staff or independent advisors for confidential guidance on options that meet your financial and philanthropic goals.

Sample Bequest Language
