NATIONAL EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Growing up, I was proudly “the rebellious one” in a very devout Chicago Catholic family.

I’m not sure if I didn’t believe in God, or if the world was just more compelling... but as my older sister discerned religious life, I was partying on weekends.

This all changed when my daily-Mass going, Rosary-aying, Irish Catholic mom forced me on a bus to a weekend youth conference in a place called “Steubenville”. That weekend I met Jesus in the Eucharist. Nothing was ever the same, God moved from an idea to a Person who knew me fully and who loved me unreservedly.

I realized that if this was all real, all true, if God was actually present in that tiny white Host, then this was not just one thing among many, but the “stillpoint of the turning world” (T.S. Eliot).

The Only Thing.

That encounter changed my life completely. But, as I returned home and began to grow in a relationship with God in the dark quiet of the 6:30 am daily Mass at my suburban parish, something began to gnaw at me. I began to realize that we are a Church in desperate need of revival.

And as a member of a generation that has lost faith in previously unforeseen numbers, I want to be part of the solution. I have had front row seats to the discouraging trends with respect to belief and practice in Catholicism and organized religion generally, in our country. Personally, I don’t think these trends are cause for despair. I think a relationship with Jesus Christ, in His Church, is still the answer to every question and longing of the human heart, and that God is still desiring to work powerfully in this world, through His Church. But only if we are willing to become open to that work.

Almost a year ago Bishop Andrew Cozzens and the National Eucharistic Board of Directors invited me to be a deeper part of the Eucharistic Revival movement as the first Executive Director of the new National Eucharistic Congress apostolate.

I joined this mission for one reason. After years of working in our Church for revival, I have become convinced that this is where it is happening.

Through this work, I have seen how through the Eucharistic Revival, Congress, and Pilgrimage, God is doing something new in His Church, something that people will be talking about for a very long time. He wants to call everyone back to His heart. He wants to breathe new life in His people. He wants this, both for our sake, and “for the life of the world”.

I have heard from countless Catholics across the country who feel the same way. Who feel like God is up to something through this Eucharistic Revival. They tell me how God is drawing them close to His Eucharistic heart in a new way. They want to be part of this movement, falling more in love with God and helping others to do the same.

This is what Eucharistic Revival is about. It’s not a marketing campaign, a program, or a strategic plan. It’s a prophetic invitation issued by God, through the bishops, to every Catholic in our country to say, “God is on the move. Will you join Him?”

So... will we?

In Christ, Tim
