SCRIPTURE INSIGHTS

Our readings this week show the way that God's blessing transforms believers and those with whom they come in contact. This Sunday's responsorial psalm emphasized the way God builds up those who believe. Simple trust in God's promises brings rejoicing, illumination, exaltation, strength, and security. Those who respond with their whole selves to God's promises of justice and eternal love find themselves transformed by joy.

If Christians are to be like Jesus, they must undertake a similar mission to change the lives of those around them. Christians bear the Holy Spirit wherever they go, and that Spirit is always at work. Prophets in ancient Israel foreshadowed this reality. Kindness to them resulted in blessings, as the first reading recounts. The Shunemite woman's deepest wish—to be a mother—received its fulfillment because of her generosity to the prophet Elisha.

Jesus imagines a similar reality for his disciples. In the section of Matthew's Gospel from which this Sunday's passage comes, Jesus offers words of encouragement to his disciples just as they are about to go out on their missionary journeys. As Elisha and other prophets bore God's blessing to any who helped them, so God would bless any who showed kindness to the bearers of Christ's Gospel.

Christ's disciples today must remember the blessing they can be to others. Christ's Spirit is a twofold source of grace, first for the disciples who bears it and then for any who receive them.
