

Every Catholic Christian is called to beatitude, that is, “blessedness” or “holiness.” In the Sermon on the Mount, Christ teaches, “Blessed are the pure of heart” (Mt 5:8). Each person is called to personal purity as a condition for blessedness with God. This call to purity is rooted in an understanding of each human person’s dignity as being created in the image and likeness of God. That is to say, that each person’s dignity flows from the very fact that they are willed by God for their own sake and called to share in “God’s own life” (CCC 356). From this understanding, purity requires that we respect and protect each human person as being created in God’s image and likeness. Dressing modestly is a way in which we “protect the ‘intimate center of the person’.

These guidelines are provided for the sake of continuity in promoting modesty in our sacramental preparation.

You as parent or guardian are the ultimate decision maker in what your Confirmandi is allowed to wear.
