

We know how difficult after death and biohazard cleanups can be - both emotionally as well as logistically. When a biohazard incident happens at your home or property, you should have the time and space to focus on caring for yourself, your family, or your employees.

Valor Technical Cleaning was founded by U.S. Army veterans with a service mindset and a proven history of serving others in their times of greatest need. We operate with care, compassion, and extreme professionalism. We provide professional technical cleaning solutions for a range of emergencies, including crime scene cleanup, suicide cleanup, and biohazard remediation.
