Crawford School celebrates 150 years

By Brent Miller

On the last Saturday of September 2025, six members of the Strong family crossed the Canadian border to celebrate Crawford School’s 150th year. They were joined by dozens of former students and family members. Some folks, like Norm Groner, remember school days back in the 1940s. Groner recounted the chores of fueling the school's wood stove and getting water from a farm down the road when the well was frozen. Other alumni gave detailed descriptions of baseball games, the arrival of a Commodore 64 computer, and Halloween pranks (yes, I have been assured, by personal confessions, that delinquency isn't something new). Darrel Boger and his cousin Randy kept the energy up with some great music and volunteers blessed us with a fantastic way to end September.

Regardless of the decade, it was a day of happy memories, good food, games, and wonderful conversations. It was humbling to consider all the families, teachers, and students that have helped this school stay alive and thriving. Let’s do our part and keep things going strong for at least another 50 years!

Heather and Tre Bromley. Tre graduated from Crawford in 2022

This is Norm Groner. We're about 50 years apart, so he was my age at the 100th celebration. He attended the school during WWII

Cole Edward Schavey

July 3, 1982 ~ October 25, 2025

Cole Edward Schavey, 43, of Kalkaska, passed away Saturday, October 25th, 2025, surrounded by his loving wife Tina, Sister Raven and friend Karen.

Cole was born on July 3rd, 1982, in Lansing, Michigan. Son to Lee and Kim Schavey.

Cole married the love of his life Tina on December 7th, 2016, in Traverse City. On this day he gained a beautiful daughter Kristen and a passionate son Noah. Cole spent the next years of his life living the dream, filled with many great family memories. If Cole could tell you one thing about his family, it is that they were his greatest accomplishment.

Cole's love for his church was astronomical. Cole touched so many of his fellow parishioners, and if I had to relay one piece of advice it would be "to find faith."

As many know, Cole was a fan of Magic the Gathering and Ryan will be carrying on his legacy.

Cole took great care of his niece and nephews as he could relate to them in so many ways. Cole was a kid at heart. Cole was very proud of his nephew, Remington, and his pursuit of engineering.

Cole's love was felt by everyone who came in contact with him. He was open to everyone no matter their situation.

Remaining to cherish, Tina Schavey; daughter Kristen; son Noah; sister Raven Schavey (Tom O'Rourke), Naomi Schavey; niece Abigail; nephew Remington, Sheamus, and Cruz.

He was preceded in death by parents Lee and Kim Schavey; grandparents Lewis and Edith Schavey, Frank and Naomi Kashenider; brothers Rebel and Joshua Schavey.

Donald Frederick Bellinger

November 28, 1934 ~ November 4, 2025

Donald F. Bellinger, age 90, of Kalkaska, Michigan went home to be with the Lord on November 4, 2025, at Kalkaska Memorial Long Term Memory Care. He was born at home on November 28, 1934, to Orrin and Rena (Byers) Bellinger in Kalkaska, Michigan. Don was never one to sit for too long. Even as a young boy, he found ways to work, use his hands, and learn from those around him. He graduated from Kalkaska High School in 1953. His academic achievements earned him a full-ride scholarship to the University of Michigan. Knowing in his heart that the classroom environment was not where he flourished, he tossed his scholarship papers over the bow of the Great Lakes ore freighter, J. Peirpont Morgan, and never looked back.

Don began work as a road and bridge surveyor for the Michigan Department of Transportation in 1953. He loved the outdoors, so this job suited him well. In 1955, Don was drafted into the Army where he proudly served his country for two years. He rejoined his surveying crew in 1957. Traveling all over the state in his 35-year career, he helped blaze the way for many of the roads we drive on today and made countless lifelong memories and friends along the way.

He is survived by his devoted wife and love of his life, Peggy Ann (Jacobson). They were married on January 21, 1956, at Peoples Church in Kalkaska. They enjoyed 69 wonderful years of marriage and raised four beautiful children in the house that his grandparents built. In addition to Peggy, Don is survived by his three daughters Kathy (Keith) Campbell, Cheryl (Dale) Dorvinen, Pam (Steven) Hinds, and son, Dan (Julie); 12 grandchildren, Ian, Courtney (Matt), Jordan, Aaron (Christa), Zach (Whitney), Cody (April), Tate, Christian (Lydia), Jack (Isabelle), William (Emily), Elizabeth, and Aidan; seven great-grandchildren Kora, Haley, Orrin, Norah, Addie, Amélie, and Joe; sister, Mary Bigelow; sister-in-law, Nancy Johnson and brother-in-law, Bernie Jacobson; and many nieces & nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents; in-laws Clarence Jacobson, Ethel (Jacobson) McKee, and Marshall McKee; brother David Bellinger; brothers-in-law Ron Johnson and Patrick Bigelow; and sister-in-law Hilda Jacobson.

Don loved history, doing things for others, tinkering on his Model A, sharing a cup of coffee with friends, deer hunting, but most of all he loved his family. He was a proud member of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, a local historian, and Director of the Kalkaska Historical Museum.

Visitation will be at noon followed by a funeral service at 1:00 pm Saturday, November 15, 2025, at the Kalkaska Funeral Home, 152 S Cedar St, Kalkaska, MI 49646. Graveside service with military honors at Kalkaska Evergreen Cemetery with a luncheon to follow at Peoples Church.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Peoples Church, 216 S Cherry St, Kalkaska, MI 49646 or Heartland Hospice, 400 Eastern Sky Dr STE 2, Traverse City, MI 48684.

Munson’s New High-Risk Breast Cancer Clinic Takes a Proactive Approach and Provides Personalized Guidance

New service is expected to benefit approximately 6,000 patients across the region.

Munson Healthcare’s (MHC) High-Risk Breast Cancer Clinic at the Cowell Family Cancer Center in Traverse City is bringing a new resource to Northern Michigan focused on earlier detection and intervention for those with an elevated risk for developing breast cancer.

As part of this initiative, MHC radiology reports now include a personalized lifetime breast cancer risk score - based on personal, medical, and family history factors - for every patient following a screening mammogram. Standing conditional orders have now been added to mammograms for any patient identified as high-risk – with calculated score that indicates a risk of 20% or higher - to simplify the referral process for advanced imaging or further testing, like MRIs.

"Historically, Northern Michigan has had a higher-than-average rate of breast cancer in some cases 20% higher than the national average," said Kathy LaRaia, Munson Healthcare Vice President of Oncology and Professional Services. "We estimate that there are approximately 6,000 patients in our region who would be considered high-risk and could benefit from this program." When a patient is identified as high-risk, the HRBCC will reach out to the patient directly to coordinate an appointment. For patients who self-refer for a mammogram, Munson’s team will share their risk score with them and help establish care with a primary care provider to initiate a referral to the clinic.

Munson’s High-Risk Breast Cancer Clinic provides a number of specialized and tailored services including:

- Personalized Risk Assessment: Patients receive a detailed review of their risk score along with expert guidance on next steps.
- Ongoing Surveillance: Annual breast cancer screenings, which may include MRI, for continued monitoring.
- Risk Reduction Education: Information on lifestyle and medical strategies to lower risk, plus access to genetic counseling when appropriate.
- Surgical Consultation: Coordinated referrals for surgical evaluation if clinically indicated.

The clinic’s team will also obtain insurance authorization for any recommended imaging. "Early detection and intervention are key to better outcomes," added LaRaia. "Munson’s High Risk Breast Cancer Clinic is committed to helping our high-risk patients work through any barriers to ensure they receive enhanced and proactive care to reduce their risk." To learn more about Munson’s new High-Risk Breast Cancer Clinic, visit munsonhealthcare.org/breastcancerclinic.

Emily Levin, MD, FAANS, Joins Munson Healthcare Neurosurgery

Munson Healthcare is pleased to welcome Emily Levin, MD, FAANS, to the Neurosurgery team.

Dr. Levin originally gravitated toward a career in engineering before deciding to continue her education to pursue a career in neurosurgery. She calls on her engineering background when determining a plan of action for her patients, including finding the best way to use technology to improve outcomes—whether that’s less invasive surgical techniques or using devices to improve a patient’s function.

Ultimately, it’s helping people that Dr. Levin likes the most about her career in medicine.

"I love having the opportunity to make people feel better, whether that’s with a smile, an open ear, or with my medical and surgical training," she says.

Her treatment approach includes working with each patient to determine the best plan for them, which can include operative or non-operative treatment.

Dr. Levin attended medical school at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. She completed an internship in general surgery and her residency in neurological surgery at University of Michigan Hospitals and Health Centers. She completed a fellowship in neurosurgery at the University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine and is board certified by the American Board of Neurological Surgery.

Dr. Levin is married with two children. In her free time, she enjoys cooking, strength training, and spending time outdoors with her family.

DEAL ME IN

By Mark Pilarski (reprinted with permission of the author)
Stalking the willy craps vipers

25 August 2003

Dear Mark,

I have been told the Stratosphere, in Las Vegas, has a crapless craps game. So if the button is OFF and a 2, 3 or 12 are rolled, these numbers do not lose, but they are established as points. Is this correct? This seems too good to be true. How does the casino offset this to its advantage? Should I stay away from this game? Ryan D.

Sentence number 4 above — dead on, Ryan. Sentence number 6 — yeah, big time. Crapless craps, or ruse craps, is exceptionally good for the shareholders of any casino that can sell it to their customers.

Also known as never ever craps, crapless craps is another example of a casino offering designed to cost you dearly when you belly up to the crapless craps table, deciding how many Jaguars you'll buy with your sure-shot winnings.

In this modified variation of a regular craps game, you do not lose on the come-out roll when the shooter tosses a 2, 3 or 12. Instead, it automatically becomes the point, just as 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 10 do on a standard game. You also do not win if the shooter throws a natural 11. It too becomes the point. With these additional frowzy rules, the house holds a 5.4% edge on your pass line bet versus the 1.4% edge in a typical craps game. Prudent readers of this column consider crapless craps as also playless craps.

Dear Mark,

When playing craps, I pretty much stick to your recommended pass line wager with odds, or placing the 6 and 8. But on my last outing before I started playing, I saw two players making a killing betting both an "any craps" and the

"horn" bet. Please describe the differences between an "any craps" bet and a "horn" bet, and, which, if any, of those two bets should I have played alongside those lucky players? Brian K.

Just because the dice were sizzling in the short term with 2s, 3s, 11s and 12s before you jumped in, doesn't mean they will still radiate BTUs when you decide to tackle wagers with a house edge over 11%. Your dice-game timeline — the period you are on the game — will always be different from that of the earlier (and, in this case lucky) players. When you join a game in progress, you initiate your own personal sequence of rolls, the randomness of nature likely returning it to a more normal pattern. (A flipped fair coin can come down the same face up many, many times. But would you bet that all your buddy's pocket change, dumped on your kitchen table, would all show heads on the first try? Well...)

This column, Brian, proselytizes for making wagers with a reduced casino advantage, and an "any craps" or "horn" wager ain't one of them. An "any craps" bet is wagering that 2, 3 or 12 will be the result of the next roll. With a payoff of 7 to 1, the house edge is 11.1%.

A "craps-eleven," or "horn" bet as it's typically called, is a bet that the next roll will turn a 2, 3, 11 or 12. If any other number rolls, you lose. Though the payoff varies from casino to casino, the house edge on a "horn" bet is always more than 12%. Bucking, Brian, for the top 10 sucker bets list, both of 'em.

On Corn

Years ago
corn was planted in hills, not rows.

This required
marking the earth
before the planting

"Marking Poles", poles with small chains
attached to the pole

equally along its length
were used to do this.

Two men would carry the pole
across the tilled land

length and breadth.
Where the lines crossed
we would plant the seeds.

Men did this with "corn planters"
walking across fields.

We children helped as we could planting with our hands.

"One for the cut worm one for the crow. One for the blackbird and one to grow."We chanted and planted.

From each hill
green shoots appeared eager to grow tall.

Waiting for spring rains to come.
Waiting and waiting.

The 3 Questions to Win at Life

This is the first in a 3-part series on the questions and answers that inform our lives.

The first question is: Where Do I Come From?

When we look at our own mental health, understanding our origins can influence how we see ourselves and the world around us. When we understand our cultural background, our family structures and our formative experiences, we start to form a picture of the forces that shaped us in becoming the person we are.

Our identity is shaped by both nature and nurture: genetics, childhood experiences, community, belief systems, and early models of what made us feel safe and what we considered to be a threat. These forces and environments also inform our psychological attachment patterns, survival responses, inherited trauma and the emotional templates we use to respond to the world.

A common mistake that people fall into is believing that “where I come from is who I must remain.” We are told to “never forget where you come from.” The truth is that our origins can help explain how we became the person we are, but they do not define, constrain or confine us to any foreclosed identity. We are, after all, our own unique person regardless of our past experiences or origins, and we can learn about ourselves through our past but still create a life and state of mental well-being that is as individualized as we are. Our past is not our destiny.

Here are three practical ways to understand how our origins have helped inform the person we eventually became:

- Take time to reflect on your early lessons about safety, love and how to handle conflict.
- Identify any patterns that you inherited or learned from your family and culture that may no longer serve you.
- Use curiosity while looking at your past. This is a journey of learning and growing not of judgements about yourself or others.

Answering the question: “Where Do I Come From?” is a journey of self-discovery. When we understand where we came from, how this influenced our views of ourselves and our world and what we might want to do differently without falling into harsh judgments, we add a new level of clarity to our lives, and this will go a long way towards better mental health.

When Bad Things Happen

What do I tell my child when bad things happen? This is a question I get on a regular basis. Whether it is something in the world, the nation, or closer to home, what do we tell children when things happen?

First, it depends on their age. If they are young, you tell them only what is appropriate for their age. They don’t need to know every detail of what has happened. This can be hard because if it is a newsworthy event you may have to shield them from the constant newsfeed that is happening around you.

Kids have great hearing when you don’t want them to know what you are talking about. So, you may need to censor the news or not have it on with them around. If it is an event closer to home, then you have conversations with adults when the kids are not around. This means you may have to be creative.

Kids can sense tension. They can tell when something is wrong even when you don’t tell them. When you are talking to others try not to do it with kids around. This just increases their anxiety. They will need reassurance during scary times. Be their safe space.

If your kids go to school, they could hear things about nationwide or worldwide events from their peers. They will ask questions. Try to answer their questions on an age-appropriate level. When bad things happen, kids get scared. They want to know what is happening. They are also curious and so therefore are trying to figure things out just like everyone else. Keep an open dialogue with your kids to help them understand what is happening around them.

If there are things happening in your home, try to address them as you are able. Kids want to know, or need to know, what is happening. But if there is something like a divorce, they don’t need to know the reasons or details. It is hard enough for them to process the divorce itself, let alone the reasons. Just tell them it is between adults, or it is a grown-up issue.

If there is a death in the family, kids need to know, but telling details isn’t necessary. Children are very concrete in their thinking. They have a hard time understanding the permanency of death. When telling a young child someone has died, telling them something like, their body stopped working and they died.

Do not tell them things like they went on a vacation. This gives the idea that the person will be back. Telling them the person when to Heaven to live with Jesus is okay, as long as you tell them their body stopped working as well. Kids will want to go visit someone in Heaven. (I wish.)

If you are telling a child someone they love is in jail or prison, tell them they made a mistake and they are going to jail, which is adult timeout. They may want to know what they did to get in trouble. Answer the best you can, as long as it is something age appropriate.

Kids will want to express their emotions and need help doing so in a safe environment. Find them a child therapist who can help them do this in their own way. The therapist can give them coping skills and help them express their feelings in a healthy manner.

We can’t prevent many tragic things in life. We need to learn how to deal with them as they come. Kids are no different. We live in a sinful world so therefore bad things happen. We can help, however, help kids process things as they happen to the best of our ability.

Charles Lee Clark, 90, "Chuck" of East Jordan, passed away on October 27, 2025, in the presence of loving family and friends at the Munson Medical Center in Traverse City. He was born in 1935 to Archer and Olive (Peck) Clark in his grandparents' Cherry Street home in Kalkaska. Chuck attended the Kalkaska Rural Agricultural School and became a life-long learner and mentor, sharing his diverse knowledge and skills with others. As a 56-year Kalkaska resident, he was very active in the community and knew almost everyone by name. Chuck was a rich repository of the past and known as an interesting storyteller. He was a cheerful and optimistic friend, an encourager to all. At age 19 he became the Village of Kalkaska Superintendent, serving in that position for 19 years. He was subsequently recruited for the position of Director of Building and Grounds for the Kalkaska Public Schools from which he retired with 15 years of service. Chuck also founded his business as home builder and electrician. Over the years he built 5 personal homes for his family and drew the plans for the construction of the Kalkaska Seventh-Day Adventist Church which was dedicated in 1965. Chuck was a former Chair of the Kalkaska County Board of Commissioners and was honored as the East Jordan Family Health Center's 2023 Community Health Champion where he served on the board for ten years. His favorite Bible verses were John 3:16 "For God so Loved the World that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life" and Revelation 14:12 "Here is the patience of the saints; here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus". KJV Chuck recently said that the very best things that ever happened to him in his life were his acceptance of Jesus Christ as his personal Lord and Savior, his two loving and caring wives, and wonderful children to love. He acknowledged God's loving care for him over all these many decades and gives God all the credit for everything. Preceding him in death were his wife of 37 years, Roberta (Brooks) Clark, father Archer Clark, stepmother Dorothy Clark, mother Olive Stoops, stepfather Claude Stoops, brother Percy Clark, daughter Pamela Clark, granddaughter Crystal Hershberger, and stepdaughter Barbara Pluister. Pastor Chris Ames, of the Seventh-Day Adventist officiated. All were invited to join a fellowship time and light refreshments following at the Kalkaska Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 2004 N. ## Anyway

People are often unreasonable, irrational, and self-centered.

Forgive them anyway.

If you are kind, people may accuse you of selfish, ulterior motives.

Be kind anyway.

If you are successful, you will win some unfaithful friends and some genuine enemies.

Succeed anyway.

If you are honest and sincere, people may deceive you.

Be honest and sincere anyway.

What you spend years creating, others could destroy overnight.

Create anyway.

If you find serenity and happiness, some may be jealous.

Be happy anyway.

The good you do today, will often be forgotten.

Do good anyway.

Give the best you have, and it will never be enough.

Give your best anyway.

In the final analysis, it is between you and God.

It was never between you and them, anyway.

Birthdays

November 14, 2025

“Always remember,” she said, “your birthday is the celebration of your own existence.” My grandmother told me that a good half-century ago and I continue to benefit every year from her wisdom. She was probably the age I am now when she made that pronouncement. I have repeated it more times than I can count, since then.

This week in November has many birthdays that are significant to me. Starting with family birthdays, my first child, a precious daughter, was born on November 14, which was also the birthday of my maternal grandmother. Seven years later, my second daughter was also born on November 14. When I remarried, late in life, I gained two bonus daughter, one of whom has a birthday on November 13. Moving on to my country, this year we celebrate the 250th birthdays of both the Navy and the Marine Corps on November 10, just before we take a moment on November 11, to thank all those who have put their own lives on the line for the sake of the United States of America. My husband is a Navy veteran and my stepson is a retired Marine. So, we commemorate the birthdays of both branches of military service.

As I said, this week in November is full of meaning, celebration, and gratitude for me. I rejoice in the lives of my beautiful daughters, my beloved husband and treasured stepson. Inside my head and heart it feels like a wonderful parade with brass bands playing triumphant Sousa marches and all the baton twirlers, formation dancers, decorated floats, and characters tossing out candy and popcorn to the crowd, in great jubilation!

What, though, is the reason to celebrate our own existence? I’ve come to understand that what we can bring to the world with the gifts and graces we were born with and develop during our existence is the reason for celebration. It is easy to see why we would celebrate the existence of certain people and service organizations. Consider the great gifts to humanity bestowed on us by the minds of great thinkers, the courage of explorers, the expression of beauty by musicians, painters, sculptors, and other artists.

Where would we be without the fundamental shape understanding brought to us by Euclid through geometry? What if Beethoven, though totally deaf at the time, had never composed his Sixth Symphony, the “Pastorale”? Suppose Jefferson, in spite of his own flaws, had never written the Declaration of Independence? I can continue with names and accomplishments that we will recognize as significant.s But, what about you ad me? We are ordinary people, individuals who take up very little space in the world. Why celebrate our individual existence?

Well, I heard an answer to that question in my pastor’s sermon message this past Sunday. It goes a bit like this: what can you do with the gifts, talents, and skills you have, to promote a world where people live in peace, where people are safe from violence, where people have enough food to eat, where people are sheltered from the storm, and where people help each other when hard times come?

It fits right up there with the familiar phrase that nobody can do everything, but everybody can do something. What are you good at? What are the needs in your family, neighborhood, or community that could benefit from what you are good at? Are you good at seeing the solutions to complex situations? Are you especially good at leading teams? Are you a patient adult who can gently guide a child? Is your passion the tidiness of living space? Are you an inspired cook? Are you the person who can repair virtually anything mechanical? Do you see art in everything including the bare branches of winter trees? Does the wind whisper poetic verses to you or sing melodies for you to capture?

Do you see where I am going with this? Each of us has talents we were born with that we can develop into skills. We can use our talents, our skills, our gifts to make the tiny space we occupy just a little bit better than it was when we first arrived. One of us doesn’t make a big difference, but a few hundred of us can, indeed, make a significant positive change in our family, neighborhood, and community. And, who knows, our example may be contagious.

As I watch people band together in a time of difficulty, such as we have had recently with food benefits restricted, I am once again persuaded that most people are good-heated and generous and wish to help their neighbors. So, bringing what they can to share with one another, they do their part to make life better around them.

There it is, that’s why each person’s existence should be celebrated, and what better moment than on their birthday!

Well, that’s what I’ve been thinking about.

Shalom

Letter to the Editor

CROP Walk 2025Dear Editor:

CROP Walk 2025 was a great success, and the memories are still with me. We had twenty-four committed walkers and raised just over $2500. The money raised will be used to end hunger locally and around the world. Again, a large portion of that total—$1067—came from the generous donations of Village Market patrons. Kevin Young allowed us to place donation cans in Rapid City Village Market and Elk Rapids Village Market, and we are grateful for his assistance in this mission.

CROP Walk could not happen without the use of the Forest Home Township Building, and we are thankful for their support. And CROP Walk would not be the same without the generosity of King Orchards and their wonderful apples that we look forward to enjoying after the walk.

Thank you to the walkers who showed up to walk the route in Bellaire and for the funds donated through them and for the churches they represent.

Last, thank you to The Voice for letting us put articles about the walk in the paper.

It takes many people working together to keep the walk going and make it successful, and I appreciate each person.

Sincerely,
Connie Brigham

WALK SLOWLY WITH PURPOSE

Deer Hunt Tradition

By Dominic Fortuna

ALDEN -- The crunch of leaves underfoot, the chill of the pre-dawn air, and the quiet excitement of my dad's voice as he handed me my rifle on that very first hunt. I must've been around 14 years old, and my heart was racing with anticipation. We were going whitetail deer hunting, just the two of us, and I felt like the luckiest kid in the world. That was the start of a tradition that would span decades, one that would weave its way into the fabric of my being, and eventually, into the lives of my own boys.

As I grew older, the roles reversed, and I found myself taking my boys on their first hunts, watching with pride as they grew into skilled hunters, and sharing with them the secrets of the forest. The tradition of deer hunting in Northern Michigan is a long and storied one, dating back to the early 1900s when the state's vast forests and abundant wildlife made it a hunter's paradise.

The regulations have changed over the years, of course. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has implemented various measures to ensure the sustainability of the deer herd and the ecosystem as a whole. In Northern Michigan, where we hunt, the season typically starts on November 15th, and runs for several weeks, with specific dates and times varying depending on the zone and the type of hunt.

To hunt deer in Michigan, you need a valid license, which can be obtained online or at local sporting goods stores. The DNR has set specific bag limits, antler requirements, and hunting hours to ensure the deer population remains healthy. For example, in most of Northern Michigan, hunters are allowed to take one buck with a minimum antler size of 3 inches, and two does or fags (antlerless deer). The hunting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

But it's not just about the regulations; it's about the tradition, the camaraderie, and the love for the great outdoors. My boys and I sit around the fire, reliving past hunts, sharing stories, and making plans for the season. The girls, too, are part of the crew now - there are daughters who'd rather hunt than shop, and the others, who've married into our little hunting family. They're just as passionate, just as dedicated, and just as much a part of our tribe.

Uncle Al, a fixture in our hunting group, always has a new story to share, usually involving a giant buck that got away (again). Tom S and Marco, my dad's pals, are always up for a good time, and their laughter echoes through the woods. And then there's Fast Eddie, who'd come up from Detroit every year, just to fall asleep in his blind, claiming he loved getting away from his wife and being with us "hunt buddies."

I miss Fast Eddie, but his memory lives on in our stories and laughter. He was a character, to say the least, but he embodied the spirit of hunting: camaraderie, respect, and a love for the great outdoors. As I settle into my blind, rifle at the ready, I feel my dad's presence beside me, a reminder of the legacy, the bond, and the memories we've shared.

The wait begins, the silence, the anticipation. The sun will rise, the deer will move, and we'll be there, ready to take it all in. We'll be mindful of the regulations, of course, but mostly, we'll be grateful for this time, this place, and the chance to share it with those we love.

To all my fellow hunters out there, whether you're in a condo blind, up a tree, or on an old chair, God bless you. Be safe, be respectful, and cherish every moment. We're not just hunters; we're family, bound by a shared passion, a love for the wild, and a desire to pass it all down to the next generation.

As the day wears on, and the hunt comes to a close, we'll gather around the fire, sharing stories, and reliving the memories. We'll talk about the ones that got away, the ones we took, and the ones we'll never forget. And when the night is over, and the fire is just embers, we'll drift off to sleep, our hearts full, our spirits renewed, and our souls at peace, knowing that we'll do it all again next year, and the year after that, and the year after that.

The stories we tell, the memories we make, and the traditions we uphold will be unforgettable, passed down for another hundred years, a testament to the bond between boys and men, fathers and daughters, and the great outdoors that brings us all together.

Veterans Day in Kalkaska

The Kalkaska American Legion Post 480 began their Veterans Day with a Flag raising outside Kalkaska Middle School. Then they gathered with students who asked the Veterans questions about their military service, and what classes they recommended the students take to prepare them for the military. There was also the Annual Veterans Recognition Luncheon at the Kalkaska County Commission on Aging. Heartland Hospice and Kalkaska Funeral Home sponsored a pinning ceremony for the Veterans attending the luncheon. An excellent meal and camaraderie was shared by all who attended.

Michigan Heritage & Research Foundation

Area Marines gathered at G's Restaurant in Kalkaska to celebrate the Marine Corps 250th Birthday. The highlights included great camaraderie, a shared meal and the trust and friendship resulting from a common bond. Family Fare donated traditional Birthday Cake, and Rheata Ray Case and Harry Shipp had the honor of cutting the cake. Raffle resulted in $120 raised for Toys for Tots. A group photo was preceded the singing of the Marine Corps Hymn.
