

WEEKEND READINGS

Fifth Sunday In Ordinary Time
Quinto Domingo Del Tiempo Ordinario

God reminds us this Sunday that faith is not only something we believe, but something we live, especially in how we care for those around us. When we act with generosity, justice, and compassion, God's light quietly begins to shine through our lives. The psalm paints a picture of people who trust the Lord and become a steady light for others, even in difficult times. St. Paul shows us that this light does not come from our own strength or impressive words, but from God's power working within us. Jesus then calls us salt and light, reminding us that faith is never meant to be hidden or kept private. Instead, our daily choices and good works can help others glimpse God's presence in the world. As we begin this week, we are invited to let God's light flow through us in simple, humble acts of love.

Dios nos recuerda este domingo que la fe no es solo algo que creemos, sino algo que vivimos, especialmente en la manera en que cuidamos a los demás. Cuando actuamos con generosidad, justicia y compasión, la luz de Dios comienza a brillar silenciosamente en nuestra vida. El salmo nos presenta a personas que confían en el Señor y se convierten en una luz firme para otros, aun en medio de las dificultades. San Pablo nos enseña que esta luz no nace de nuestra propia fuerza ni de palabras impresionantes, sino del poder de Dios que actúa en nosotros. Jesús nos llama sal y luz, recordándonos que la fe nunca debe esconderse ni guardarse solo para uno mismo. Al contrario, nuestras decisiones diarias y buenas obras pueden ayudar a que otros descubran la presencia de Dios en el mundo. Al comenzar esta semana, somos invitados a dejar que la luz de Dios fluya a través de nosotros en actos sencillos y humildes de amor.
