

WEEKEND READINGS

Twenty-eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time Vigésimo Octavo Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario

In today’s Gospel, Jesus reminds us that God invites everyone to the feast and generously provides what we need. This feast is more than a meal; it is a sign of God’s desire for every person to experience his gifts in abundance. Accepting God’s invitation means allowing God’s grace to transform us and the way we see others. We cannot simply come to the table while refusing to let our hearts be changed. We are called to recognize those around us, especially individuals who may seem different or difficult, are also invited to the feast. God’s welcome is wider than our own comfort, when we clothe ourselves in God’s grace, we begin to see others not as strangers, but as brothers and sisters in Christ. May we accept God’s invitation by opening our hearts, and becoming people who extend God’s generous welcome to everyone.

En el Evangelio de hoy, Jesús nos recuerda que Dios invita a todos al banquete y nos ofrece generosamente lo que necesitamos. Este banquete es más que una comida; es un signo del deseo de Dios de que cada persona experimente sus dones en abundancia. Aceptar la invitación de Dios significa permitir que su gracia nos transforme y transforme también la manera en que vemos a los demás. No podemos simplemente venir a la mesa mientras nos negamos a permitir que nuestros corazones sean transformados. Estamos llamados a reconocer que quienes están a nuestro alrededor, especialmente las personas que pueden parecernos diferentes o difíciles, también están invitadas al banquete. La acogida de Dios es más grande que nuestra propia comodidad; cuando nos revestimos de la gracia de Dios, comenzamos a ver a los demás no como extraños, sino como hermanos y hermanas en Cristo. Que podamos aceptar la invitación de Dios abriendo nuestros corazones y convirtiéndonos en personas que extienden la generosa acogida de Dios a todos.
