PetSculptures

The type of clay we use varies between projects.

If the sculpture will be outside, pottery clay is used, cured for several days and kiln fired before finishing.

Ashes can be added to sculptures or into the base. Coco Bear's ashes (below) were added to the bed she sits on, and the base was poured in Artisan Concrete.

Sculptures can also be added to the top of most of our urns.

Each sculpture is mounted on stone or wood.

Hand-Painted Pet Portraits

The How and the Price Options

Each portrait is a one-of-a-kind, hand-painted artwork created from your photographs. My goal is not simply to capture a likeness, but to honour your pet's personality, expression, and presence in a way that feels timeless and meaningful.

Every portrait is painted in acrylic on a gallery-wrapped canvas or Birch Wood and finished with your choice of a satin or matte varnish for long-term protection.

Because these are original fine-art commissions, I intentionally limit the number of portraits I accept each month to ensure every piece receives the care, attention, and detail it deserves.

"My pricing reflects the time, detail, and personal attention each portrait receives. I intentionally take on fewer commissions so each piece is painted with care and longevity in mind."

Shauna Madsen
Legacy Portrait Artist.

Each portrait includes:

- Photo consultation and composition guidance
- Hand-painted portrait using professional acrylic
- 3/4 in canvas or Upgrade to Contemporary or Framed
- UV protection in Satin or Matt varnish finish
- Ready to hang

Commission Process

A 50% deposit secures your place in my commission schedule. The remaining balance is due upon completion. I accept e-transfers and credit card payments.

If you're unsure which size best suits your space or vision, I'm always happy to help you choose a canvas that feels just right.

Custom & Large-Scale Artwork

If you're dreaming of a larger statement piece, I also offer custom large-scale commissions. In some cases, I can create an original painting and have it professionally reproduced at a larger size using archival materials through my fine-art printing partner.

Please inquire for custom sizing and quotes.

I look forward to creating a memory piece for you to last a lifetime!

Shauna Madsen

Creative Spirit, Animal Lover, and All-Around Maker of Beautiful Things

With four decades of artistic adventure under her belt, Shauna Madsen is a vibrant creative force based in Edmonton, Alberta. Over the years, she's painted murals that brighten up businesses and homes across Alberta, facilitated art programs for kids and adults alike, and continuously rediscovered new ways to express her love for art and community.

Shauna's practice is wildly diverse — from soulful pet portraits that capture their unique spirit, to sculpting in clay, and crafting molds for her signature line of handcrafted pet urns. She pours heart, skill, and a sprinkle of whimsy into every piece. Nature and animals are at the core of her work; whether on canvas, in clay, or within a custom memorial, she reveals more than just a pet's likeness — she uncovers their essence.

Growing up on an acreage, her childhood was filled with a menagerie of companions — cats, dogs, rabbits, horses, and even a charming pet crow named Herby Miller (yes, really!).

Those early adventures continue to inspire her work today.

After three decades helping small businesses with branding and planning, Shauna took a daring leap in 2022 — turning her full focus to her art studio. Since then, she's authored and published her debut book, The Wealthy Peasant, expanded her collection of memorial art, and showcased her work in exhibitions throughout Alberta. Today, her art finds homes and touches hearts across the globe.

Whether wielding a paintbrush, shaping clay, or crafting meaningful words, Shauna's creations celebrate connection, memory, and the joy of honouring the lives we cherish with our beloved animals.
