The Solemnity of Corpus Christi originated with Saint Juliana of Cornillon who was born near Liège, Belgium around 1191. Orphaned at the age of five, Juliana and her sister were entrusted to the care of Augustinian nuns. Within the convent, Juliana grew in her faith, participated in Eucharistic adoration, and frequented Holy Communion. Eventually, she joined the Augustinian order. At age sixteen, Juliana had a mystical vision during Eucharistic adoration in which she saw the moon with a dark stripe. By divine intuition, she understood that the moon symbolized the Church's life on earth, and the dark stripe symbolized the absence of a feast dedicated to the Body and Blood of Christ. Though she had the same vision several more times, she kept it to herself for twenty years.

Around age thirty-six, Juliana shared her vision with two holy women. Together, the three grew in their love of Christ in the Eucharist, adoring His hidden presence and receiving Holy Communion frequently. After sharing her vision with the bishop, he reluctantly approved an annual feast to honor the Blessed Sacrament; other bishops followed. As word spread about Juliana's visions, her superior and some clergy opposed her. She took refuge in various Cistercian monasteries for ten years. Juliana died at the age of sixty-seven while adoring the Most Blessed Sacrament in her cell. A local Archdeacon in Liège, Jacques Pantaléon of Troyes, who was familiar with Juliana and her visions, was elected Pope Urban IV in 1261. He believed that a universal Corpus Christi feast was God's will.

In 1263, a Eucharistic miracle took place in Bolsena, Italy. A German priest named Father Peter of Prague stopped at the local church to offer Mass during a pilgrimage at the tomb of Saint Christina, a fourth-century martyr. Father Peter was struggling to believe in the true presence of Christ in the Eucharist. During the consecration, blood flowed from the host he was holding onto his hands and the linen corporal on the altar. He immediately went to Pope Urban, who was staying nearby, to reveal the miracle and his lack of faith. The pope absolved him and sent a delegation to investigate. The delegation brought the corporal to the cathedral in Orvieto, where it remains enshrined today.

In 1264, Pope Urban instituted the universal Solemnity of Corpus Christi on the Thursday after the Solemnity of the Most Holy Trinity, in honor of the day that the Eucharist was instituted. He asked the renowned theologian Father Thomas Aquinas to compose the liturgical texts for the feast. Among the texts the future saint and Doctor of the Church composed are the revered hymns, "Pange Lingua," "Tantum Ergo," "Panis Angelicus," and "O Salutaris Hostia."

The Solemnity of Corpus Christi has grown and become an important annual celebration, often including Eucharistic processions, adoration, and Mass. Where it is not a holy day of obligation, the solemnity is moved to the following Sunday so as to extend the celebration to the entire people of God. In 1869, Pope Pius IX canonized Saint Juliana of Liège, adding greater credence to her miraculous visions and solidifying the importance of this holy solemnity.

SUNDAY CONNECTION

First Reading: Deuteronomy 8:2-3,14b-16a
Moses tells the people to remember how God delivered them from slavery in Egypt.

Responsorial Psalm: Psalm 147:12-15,19-20
Praise God, Jerusalem!

Second Reading: 1 Corinthians 10:16-17
Though many, we are one body when we partake of the Body and Blood of Christ.

Gospel Reading: John 6:51-58
Jesus says, "I am the living bread."

Background on the Gospel Reading

This Sunday we celebrate a second solemnity during this period of Ordinary Time in the liturgical calendar. Today is the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ. This day was once called Corpus Christi, which is Latin for "Body of Christ." In the revised Lectionary the name for this day is expanded to reflect more completely our Eucharistic theology.

Today's Gospel is taken from the Gospel according to John. The reading is part of a discourse between Jesus and a crowd of Jews. The discourse comes shortly after the miracle of Jesus' multiplication of the loaves and fishes. In John's Gospel, miracles such as this are identified as "signs" through which people come to believe that Jesus is the Son of God. These signs are followed by dialogue, or discourse that interprets and explains the miracle. In John's Gospel, Jesus' multiplication of the loaves is said to have occurred near Passover, thus linking it to the Exodus story and God's saving action toward the Israelites.

Having seen Jesus multiply the loaves and fishes, the crowd pursues him, perhaps seeking more food but also looking for another sign. Jesus tells the crowd that he is the bread of life. He explains that just as God gave the Israelites manna to sustain them in the desert, so now God has sent new manna that will give eternal life. It is in this context that Jesus repeats those words in today's Gospel and tells them again that he is the living bread that came down from heaven.

Jesus' words are not well understood by the crowd; they argue that Jesus is not from heaven but born of Mary and Joseph. The crowd also has trouble understanding how Jesus could give them his flesh to eat. Jesus tells them that when they eat his flesh and drink his blood, they will remain forever connected to him. These are difficult words, but they are important because they seek to show us our intimate connection with Jesus.

This is the mystery that is at the heart of our Eucharistic theology. In the elements of bread and wine, Jesus' Body and Blood are truly present. When we share in the Body and Blood of Christ, Jesus himself comes to dwell within us. This communion with the Lord makes us one body, brings us eternal life, and sends us forth to be Christ's Body in the world.

Our Campaign Goal
(including ADA 2026):

NEXT WEEKEND IS LEADERSHIP WEEKEND

We invite families who have prayerfully discerned their commitment to the Sowing Seeds of Faith campaign to place their pledge in the offertory basket during Mass next weekend. Many families have already received a pledge card by mail, during our May tabling, or through speaking with me or a campaign supporter.

By doing so, you're not just making a gift—you're making a witness. You're leading with faith, planting seeds of generosity, and helping our parishes grow in unity and mission.

Your example will inspire others to listen, reflect, and respond as God moves their hearts.

Yours in Christ,
Rev. Tito Jesus L. Cartagenas
