Welcome to our Season Two Programme

New joiners are very welcome, so if you would like to join Explore please get in touch or join our mailing list to find out more. Look out for our special FREE Taster sessions on our first day of the season - all welcome! You'll find details in this programme and online.

Our cover image this season reflects this season's Culture & Society theme of 'Boundaries & Frontiers'; of identifying, understanding & facing them, of crossing, bridging & pushing them. In an ever changing world of conflict, climate change and shifting geo-political concerns, many of our C&S talks will consider different historical and contemporary boundaries and frontiers to help us consider where various lines are, were, or might be drawn.

Look out for our small 'Boundaries & Frontiers' logo to identify those sessions.

'It is not knowledge, but the act of learning, not the possession but the act of getting there, which grants the greatest enjoyment.' Carl Friedrich Gauss (1777-1855)

We hope to welcome lots of new members to our volunteer-run, member-led organisation as we continue to thrive after more than a decade of independent learning for the love of learning.

New joiners are very welcome and we'll be holding a special Taster Event for anyone interested in our programme, so come along and enjoy sessions alongside existing members to find out more about our organisation and how to join.

Thank you to the programming team and everyone else not listed who helped to organise the programme this Season:

Art History & Design: Helen Watson

Narratives (Literature, Cinema and Music) : Rita Prabhu

Science & Mathematics: Pamela Denham, Rita Prabhu & Karen Gammack

Culture & Society (incl. History & Archaeology): Kath Smith, Lesley Pringle & Joan Oliver

Philosophy: Trish Hutson

With direction from Anthea Lang & Malcolm Grady.

We are grateful to our hosts Brunswick Methodist Church, Hatton Gallery, Great North Museum: Hancock, & Newcastle Arts Centre for our Face-to-Face lecture rooms, workshop and practical art spaces.

We are Explore! Come and join us!

How will sessions be delivered? Members will receive additional information about accessing different sessions, but if you're unsure get in touch and we'll try to help.

Face-To-Face Check Venue

Face-to-Face Sessions - our face-to-face sessions usually take place at Brunswick Methodist Church in central Newcastle, however we do occasionally hold sessions off-site or at Newcastle Arts Centre. Most sessions do not need to be booked however we do occasionally request members to register interest in advance (for example practical art classes or walks) to manage materials or group sizes.

LIVE ZOOM SESSIONS

Live Zoom Sessions - these sessions are online sessions using Zoom to create a live classroom environment remotely with a tutor and 'audience'/members actively attending the session. This allows an immediacy of interaction akin to being in the same room (but usually with audience member microphones 'muted' during tutor presentation) Zoom details (invite links with relevant codes) will be sent to members in advance of the sessions. If you need assistance setting up Zoom on your computer/tablet click HERE.

BLENDED (F2F & Zoom)

Blended Sessions - where appropriate we may combine methods and stream a live Face-to-Face session via Zoom as well. This is not available for all sessions due to the nature of sessions and available resources.

We will also send any additional resources via the weekly bulletin in advance

One-Off Art History and Culture & Society Sessions: 12th January

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time	Tutor	Title
10.30-11.30	Malcolm Grady	Framing the Railways This talk examines how artists from the mid 19th century until the present century, have portrayed aspects of the development of the railways from the construction of engines to the evolution of the railway landscape, the experience of travel and the role of railway stations.
12.00-13.00	Jo Westgate	Art and Inspiration Jo is an Artist Printmaker living in Stagshaw, north of Corbridge near Hadrian's Wall. She works from her studio where she makes pictures using an 1836 Albion press and a 1960 Littlejohn etching press. In her talk she will show examples of her work and explain the techniques of woodcut and drypoint. She will describe the inspiration she finds in the northern landscape, its history and ecology.
14.00-15.30	Peter Stone	Protecting Cultural Heritage in Conflict: An Impossible Dream?  The importance of protecting heritage in conflict has been discussed for at least 2500 years and remains a critical discussion & operational necessity. Heritage can be used as a force for good, for community cohesion, reconciliation, and peacebuilding. It can also be used as a reason for conflict, and a weapon & target in conflict. This talk will discuss the work of the international NGO The Blue Shield as it strives to protect heritage as a vehicle that shows as humans we have so much more in common than what divides us.

Philosophy Course: 12th January to 9th February

Provocations

Tutor: Ian Ground

Venue/Format: These sessions will be delivered live via Zoom

Time: 10.30 to 12.00

In this discussion-based series, we will take 4 “provocations” over 5 sessions from a variety of sources with topics designed to provoke thought and discussion about central themes in philosophy.

A list of sources will be circulated before the course starts. Participants do need to view the relevant source before the session. It might take an hour or two, and it would be a good idea to jot down a note or two for questions and discussion in the session. One spare session gives us some space to extend the discussion as needed.

As with all sessions, any details needed in advance will be sent out via the weekly bulletin.

Space Medicine

Tutor: Kirsty Lindsay

Format: These sessions will be delivered live via Zoom

Time: 10.30-11.30

Head... shoulders... knees...toes... every part of the human body is affected by spaceflight.

Space exploration captures our imagination, but the human body faces remarkable challenges when venturing beyond Earth. Despite the difficulties of keeping people healthy in space, space health research offers valuable benefits for both crew and terrestrial healthcare. The accelerated physiological changes astronauts experience mirror ageing and sedentary lifestyles, providing insights applicable to healthcare on Earth, while space programmes drive technological advances in communications, medical imaging, and telemedicine.

Understanding these challenges helps us appreciate both the remarkable adaptability of the human body and the ingenuity required to protect astronauts as we venture further into space, knowledge that increasingly benefits life on Earth as well.

This presentation explores the head-to-toe physiological and psychological effects of spaceflight, drawing on current research in aerospace medicine, giving you a basic understanding of why space is bad for you, but we go anyway.

The Valkyrie* and Icelandic Heroic Literature: An Enthralling Tale of Non-

Tutor: Michael Ayton

Everyday Folk

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Time: 10.30-12.30

Richard Wagner, howsoever repugnant some of his beliefs and behaviours, was astonishingly creative. He built his mesmerising, ever-challenging operatic tetralogy The Ring of the Nibelung over many years. Before composing the music, he wrote the cycle's entire libretto himself, weaving it from the Icelandic Eddas, Norse saga material and the medieval German Nibelungenlied. In these three sessions, we'll focus on Die Walküre (The Valkyrie), the first of the three full-length operas following the introductory Das Rheingold (The Rhinegold).

Both Wagner's music and his poem-text are astonishing in their daring. We'll explore how he radically adapts his sources in the Icelandic Völsunga saga and the Poetic Edda to move The Ring's power-versus-love symbolism in new directions, as the action moves to the human realm where we encounter human lovers, and as the Valkyrie of the title, Brünnhilde, defies her father Wotan to succour them and is fearfully punished – moving us to ask, what is Wagner trying to tell us through this arresting, unsettling story, and what personal and social messages might there be here for us today? Come and be enthralled!

All texts will be provided, as will some of the most awe-inspiring (and provocative!) music ever to fill a classroom ...

Man With a Movie Camera [1929]

Tutor: Peter Quinn

Format: This session will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 13.00-15.10

Dziga Vertov's 1929 Man with a Camera was voted 9th in the 2022 Sight and Sound Great Films of All Time poll; innovative camera angles, montage, tracking shots, everyday life and a vision of a modern city make this an essential part of film history.

'An extraordinary montage of urban Ukrainian and Russian life in 1929, showing the people of the city at work and at play, and the machines that keep the city going. It was Dziga Vertov's first full-length film, and he used all the techniques - dissolves, split screen, slow motion and freeze-frames - to produce an exhilarating and intellectually brilliant feature. With new score by Michael Nyman.' BFI

Practical Art & Craft Studio

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Art Room, Hatton Gallery, Newcastle upon Tyne, NE1 8QB

Time: 13.30-15.30

This season we will continue with our Art and Craft Studio work, over 5 weeks in the Art Room at the Hatton Gallery. The sessions will be introduced and critiqued by Jenny Alderson, a local artist who has worked with us over the past year.

The theme for this term we will be Illustration. Jenny will give us a brief introduction, drawing attention to the artists and some examples which might inspire us. Then we are encouraged to each select a text, such as a story, novel or poem, to create our own illustrations. Jenny suggests we look at developing an illustrative style, perhaps come up with a character or motif which can be easily repeated, and a colour palette, inspired by examples. Jenny will also be present on 3rd March/3rd session to offer advice and support.

Growing Pains - Female Coming-of-Age Films

Tutor: Roger Mitchell

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 10.30-12.30

The coming-of-age genre has always had universal appeal and it's easy to see why. Focusing on young protagonists as they seek to establish a sense of self and navigate their way through the challenges of adolescence, these films highlight the events that can contribute to one's transition from childhood to adulthood. That transition doesn't come easy, however, requiring as it does a significant loss of innocence...

Irish Literature 1990-2023

Tutor: Clare Jackson

Venue/Format: These sessions will be delivered live via Zoom

Time: 14.00-15.30

Our focus for this course will be texts by Irish writers written in English between 1990-2023 - writings which reflect a time of great social, economic and political change in Ireland. Together, we will be discussing a range of poems, extracts from Brian Friel's Dancing at Lughnasa, and the complete text of Donal Ryan's award-winning debut novel, The Spinning Heart. We will explore the themes the writers develop and the questions they raise. What is each author's intention? What influences are working on each author's writing, and what assertions are they making in each text? What choices do the authors make in terms of style to reflect the context, ideas and emotional life of their writing?

04 Mar	Wallace Arthur	Early Animal Evolution (14.00-15.30) Following Wallace's talk last season, this session will look at the origin of animals and how the animal kingdom began to evolve. We will examine the earliest fossils of both possible and definite animals. This involves a journey through 'deep time', several hundred million years ago, long before the dinosaurs.
11 Mar	Graham McClelland	Prehospital Care of Time-Critical Conditions Latest Research (14.00-15.00) Graham is an academic paramedic based at Northumbria University leading research into prehospital care of time-critical conditions such as cardiac arrest & stroke. He will talk about research happening in the North East focussing on how paramedics ventilate patients when they resuscitate people in cardiac arrest. He will also describe some of the other research happening in the region, largely in partnership with North East Ambulance Service.
18 Mar	Theo McCarthy	The Challenges Caused by Semi Conductor Devices for Modern Aviation and Spacecraft (14.00-15.00) Electrical Engineering PhD (3rd Year, Durham University) Theo specialises in extreme environment semiconductors, focusing on optically simulating (using lasers) high energy particle strikes on power devices. Here we'll look at semi conductor devices - how they operate and how this links to the challenges for modern semiconductor devices used in modern aviation & spacecraft!

Illuminated Books of Hours: From Invention to Apogee

Tutor: Richard Gameson

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 10.30-12.00

Books of Hours, prayer books for the laity, were made in large numbers from the thirteenth to the sixteenth century, and were owned by a wide cross-section of lay society, ranging from royalty to merchants. Customised to reflect their owners' interests, they offer a rich source of information about secular and religious concerns in the late medieval and renaissance world. Almost all have decoration and the finest examples are magnificent works of art.

This course will examine the origin and use of these highly decorated books and their social and religious functions, culminating with the most magnificent example of all (the subject of a major exhibition in summer 2025): the Très Riches Heures of Jean, duc de Berry.

Stalin

Tutor: David Saunders

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 10.30-12.00 (The details below are abridged - please read the full course details HERE)

Born in Georgia in 1878, Stalin became a revolutionary in his early twenties, took office under Lenin in 1917, sought undivided authority after Lenin's death in 1924, secured it by 1929, then ruled the Soviet Union until 1953. These talks say a little about his rise and his legacy whilst concentrating on three crucial aspects of his years at the top.

05 Mar Stalin & Ukraine (Economics)

Marx expected communism to arrive in industrial societies. Because the tsarist empire wasn't heavily industrialized, the Marxists who took it over thought it was their duty to make it one as quickly as possible and embarked on forced industrialization in 1929. Largely agricultural, Ukraine was one of the hardest-hit parts of the country. Ukrainians resisted the abolition of private farming, killing their animals, not planting their fields. Famine broke out, several million people died. Industrialisation prevailed but the cost was immense.

12 Mar Stalin & the Purges (Politics)

In the later 1930s Stalin killed hundreds of thousands of people and sent many more to labour camps. Why? As punishment for resisting forced industrialization, to consolidate one-person rule, paranoid fear of foreign subversion, and opening doors for enthusiastic Soviet-educated loyalists. We'll canvass at least 11 answers before reflecting on the long-term consequences of the violence.

19 Mar Stalin & the Great Patriotic War (International affairs)

After trying to cooperate with western capitalist countries in the light of the threat posed by Hitler, Stalin concluded in 1938-9 that the West was not going to deal with him and decided instead to sign a pact with Nazi Germany. Two years later, Hitler turned on him. At the cost of 27 million Soviet lives, Stalin came out on top in the ensuing war and created a myth of Soviet might which framed his legacy and still plays a significant part in the outlook of the modern Russian Republic.

Reading Contemporary Gothic

Tutor: Bronwen Calvert

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 14.00 to 15.30

This season we will read three novels, all 21st-century works, which in some way will possess a 'Gothic' sensibility. This may reveal itself through the inclusion of otherworldly presences, weird spaces and places, supernatural transformations, and other themes and tropes associated with Gothic literature.

We'll consider how these writers create atmosphere, character, mystery and more, and discuss the various ways their works respond to the past (in literature and history) and reflect the present.

Rashōmon & Other Writings by Ryūnosuke Akutagawa

Tutor: Tim Crocker

Venue/Format: These sessions will be delivered live via Zoom

Time: 14.30-16.00

Akira Kurosawa's Rashomon (1950) is one of the all-time classics of film, inspiring interest in Japanese cinema for Western audiences for the first time. Less known in the West is the writer on whose tale the film was based, Ryūnosuke Akutagawa (1892-27) – for Haruki Murakami part of the very DNA of Japanese culture. We will read a selection of tales from across his career, from his precocious early reworking of medieval folk stories to a late, disturbing portrait of a mind on the edge of madness.

19 Feb Rashōmon' (1914), 'In a Bamboo Grove' (1922)

26 Feb 'Hell Screen' (1918), 'Horse Legs' (1925)

05 Mar NO CLASS

12 Mar 'The Writer's Craft' (1924), 'Spinning Gears' (1927)

These can be found in the following Kindle and paperback edition:

Jay Rubin (translator), Haruki Murakami (introduction) (2006) Ryūnosuke Akutagawa 'Rashōmon' and Seventeen Other Stories

Edward Young's Night-Thoughts as Illustrated by William Blake

Tutor: Tim Crocker

Venue/Format: This session will be delivered live via Zoom

Time: 14.30-16.00

Edward Young (1683-1765) was one of the most important – and popular – poets of the eighteenth century. A pre-cursor to the Romantics, he was a significant influence upon J.W. Goethe (1749-1832) as well as Blake (1757-1857).

We will read selections from Night-Thoughts, (1745), the poem Edmund Blunden (1896-74) turned to for solace whilst serving on the Western Front in WWI.

A pdf will be provided in advance of the session.

A Social History of the English Language from the Norman Conquest to the Printing Press

Tutor: Jo Bath

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face

Venue: Brunswick Methodist Church, Brunswick Place, Newcastle upon Tyne

Time: 10.30 to 12.00

In 1066 the Normans took control of England, and they never left. So why don't we all speak a version of French?

This course starts by following Old English as it held on in the margins, and then took territory back. It emerged as Middle English, enriched with thousands of new French words but Germanic at the core. How and why did all this happen, and what are the key features of what survived? Where does Arabic come into all of this?

We'll turn to the late fourteenth century flourishing of Middle English in all its varieties, in the contrasting works of Chaucer and Wycliffe, before considering how things began to standardise in the fifteenth century (with a little "help" from the Tamperers). We'll meet trilingual farm workers, the development of surnames and the first French phrasebook for English tourists, along with the stories behind freedom and curfews, gravy and Alcatraz...

Foundations of Empire: Britain's Rise to Global Power

Tutor: Nick Cott

Format: These sessions will be delivered Face-to-Face and live via Zoom

Time: 10.30 to 12.00

This course explores how Britain transformed from a European power into a global empire. Drawing on historical scholarship, the course examines the forces that shaped its rise, the rivalries it sparked, and the profound impact on societies across the world. There has been much research done in more recent times on this topic and this has led to some new interpretations and debates in understanding of the origins of the empire, sources of its power, the experience of people in the British empire and its legacy. This series focuses on the foundations of the empire up to the end of the 18th century.

What you'll learn:

- How the United Kingdom emerged as a foundation for empire
- Britain's role in the Atlantic world and the transatlantic slave trade
- The colonisation of North America and the road to the American War of Independence
- The East India Company and Britain's expanding trade networks
- The legacies of empire in the eighteenth century

20 Feb	Introduction & The origins of Britain's empire before 1700
27 Feb	The British Atlantic empire, c.1700–1800
06 Mar	The loss of the American colonies
13 Mar	The origins and early development of Britain's global empire
20 Mar	India and the British empire in the era of the East India Company
